Published by the 1967 Yearbook Staff

Lockers, classrooms, and lunch periods never lose their uniqueness. Being a part of daily procedure, they are situations experienced by the entire student body.

Daily Events Give Meaning to

The halls forever ring with the plans, concerns, and thrills shared by all Centralites. These four short years supply us with timeless opportunity.

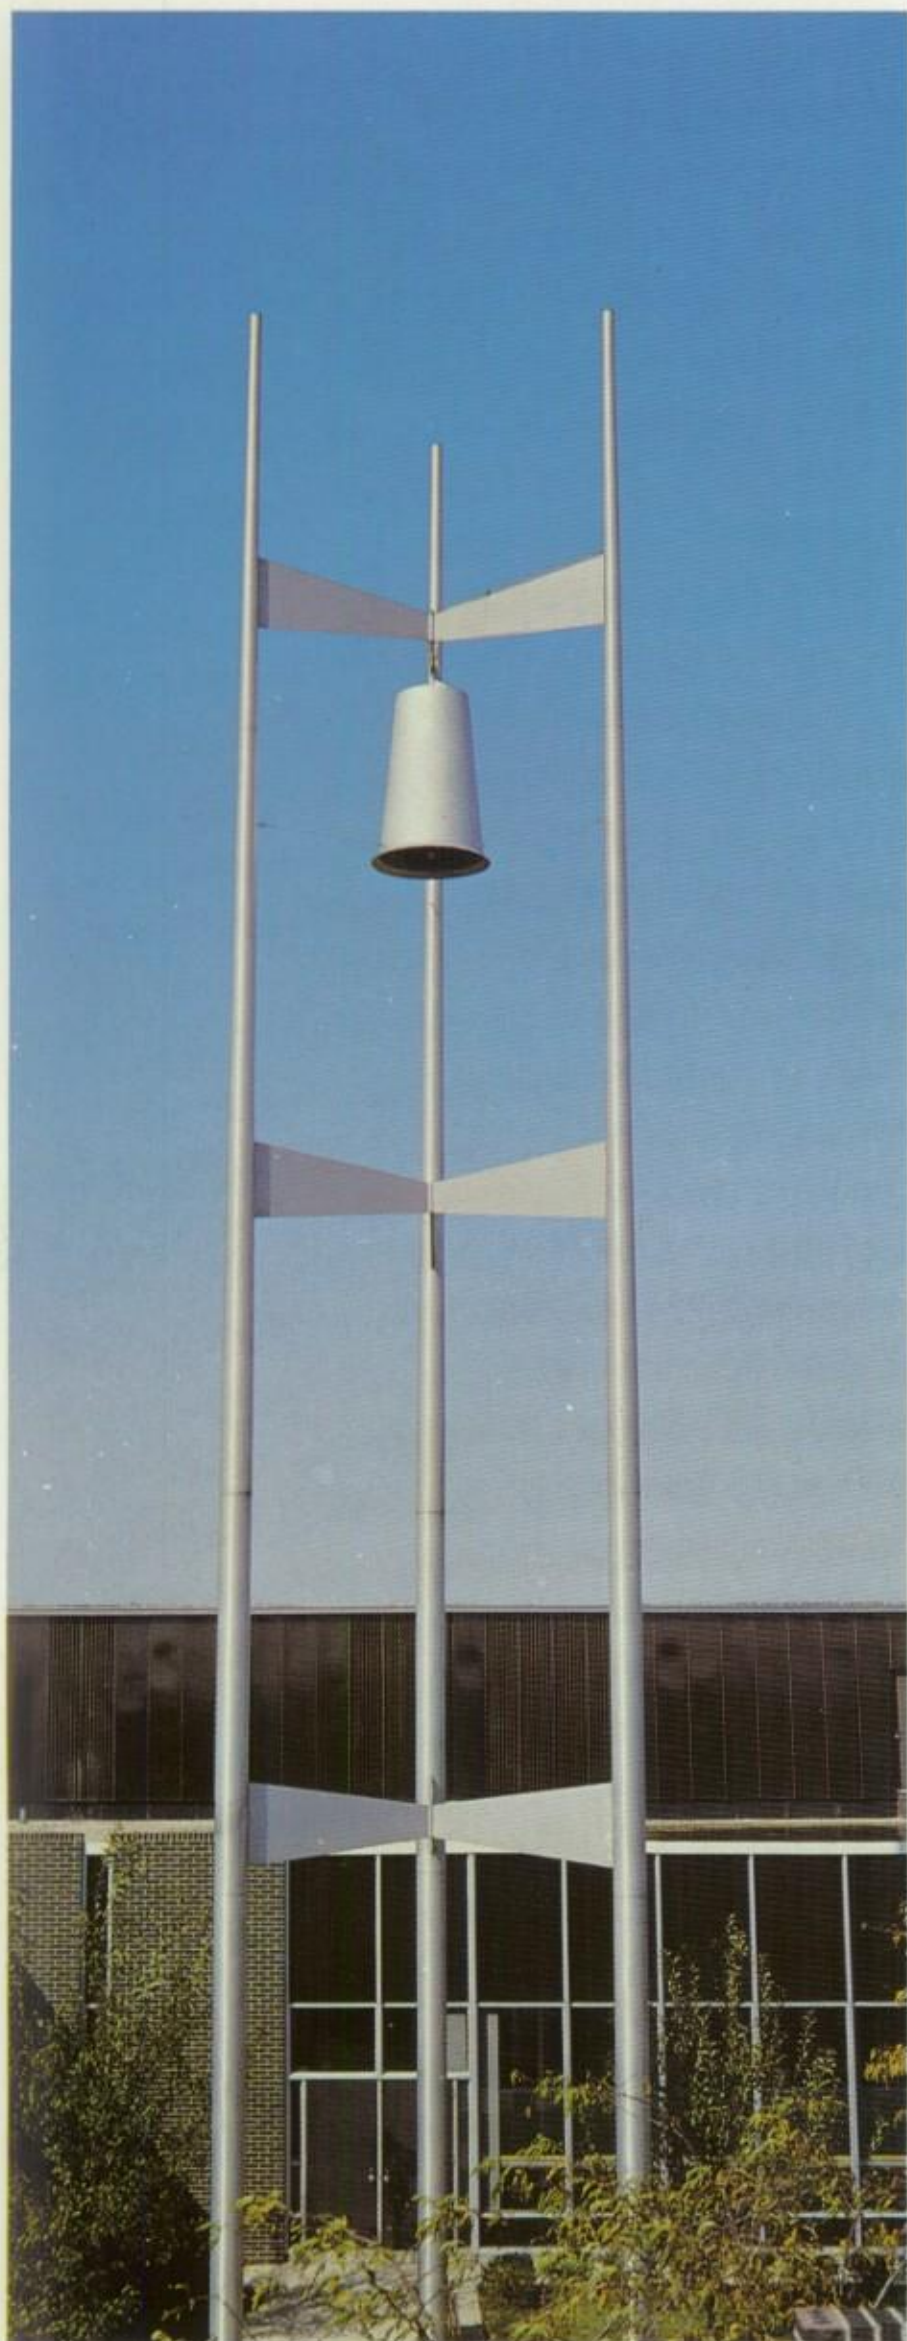

Student Life

Wearily waiting for the buses, students (right) recap the day's activities, while the empty, echoing halls (below) appear desolate without the students and faculty that bring them life.

"For Whom The Bell Tolls; It

The bell, located in our court, is only one of many we shall hear throughout the course of a lifetime. Among them will be alarm clocks, wedding bells, and the doorbells and jangling telephones of opportunity.

We have heard the bell toll for us this past year. It has rung like the laughter of the pupils as they filed into the gym for a pep session. It tolled as we mourned the loss or rejoiced at the victory of an athletic event. The bell rang in the new year as the band played "Auld Lang Syne" at the annual dance.

In high school, our destinies are shaped. The people we meet, the experiences we share, and the courses we take here will have a monumental effect on our lives.

Throughout this past year, the bell has tolled out our victories and defeats, our failures and triumphs, and has marked the effect these experiences have had on our lives.

The gentle chiming during classes reminded us that the minutes are slipping into hours, the weeks expanding into months.

The bell stands as a symbol of all the years of high school life. It rings of our pride, determination, and preparedness to face the future with assurance. Truly it is we, "For whom the bell tolls..."

School starts and so does football. Jeff Sanders rests after a strenuous play during the third quarter of the North Central game

New Situations Characterize

LC's new teachers are introduced by their students at an annual convocation late in September.

The Booster Club sponsored a bonfire to raise school spirit before the North Central game.

1st Six Weeks

During those first frantic weeks of school, Lawrence Central students readjust to school life. New and old experiences greet them . . . football games, homework, dances, new teachers, and the new IBM grade cards.

Cheers echo in the afternoon air at the first pep session of the year held in the football stadium.

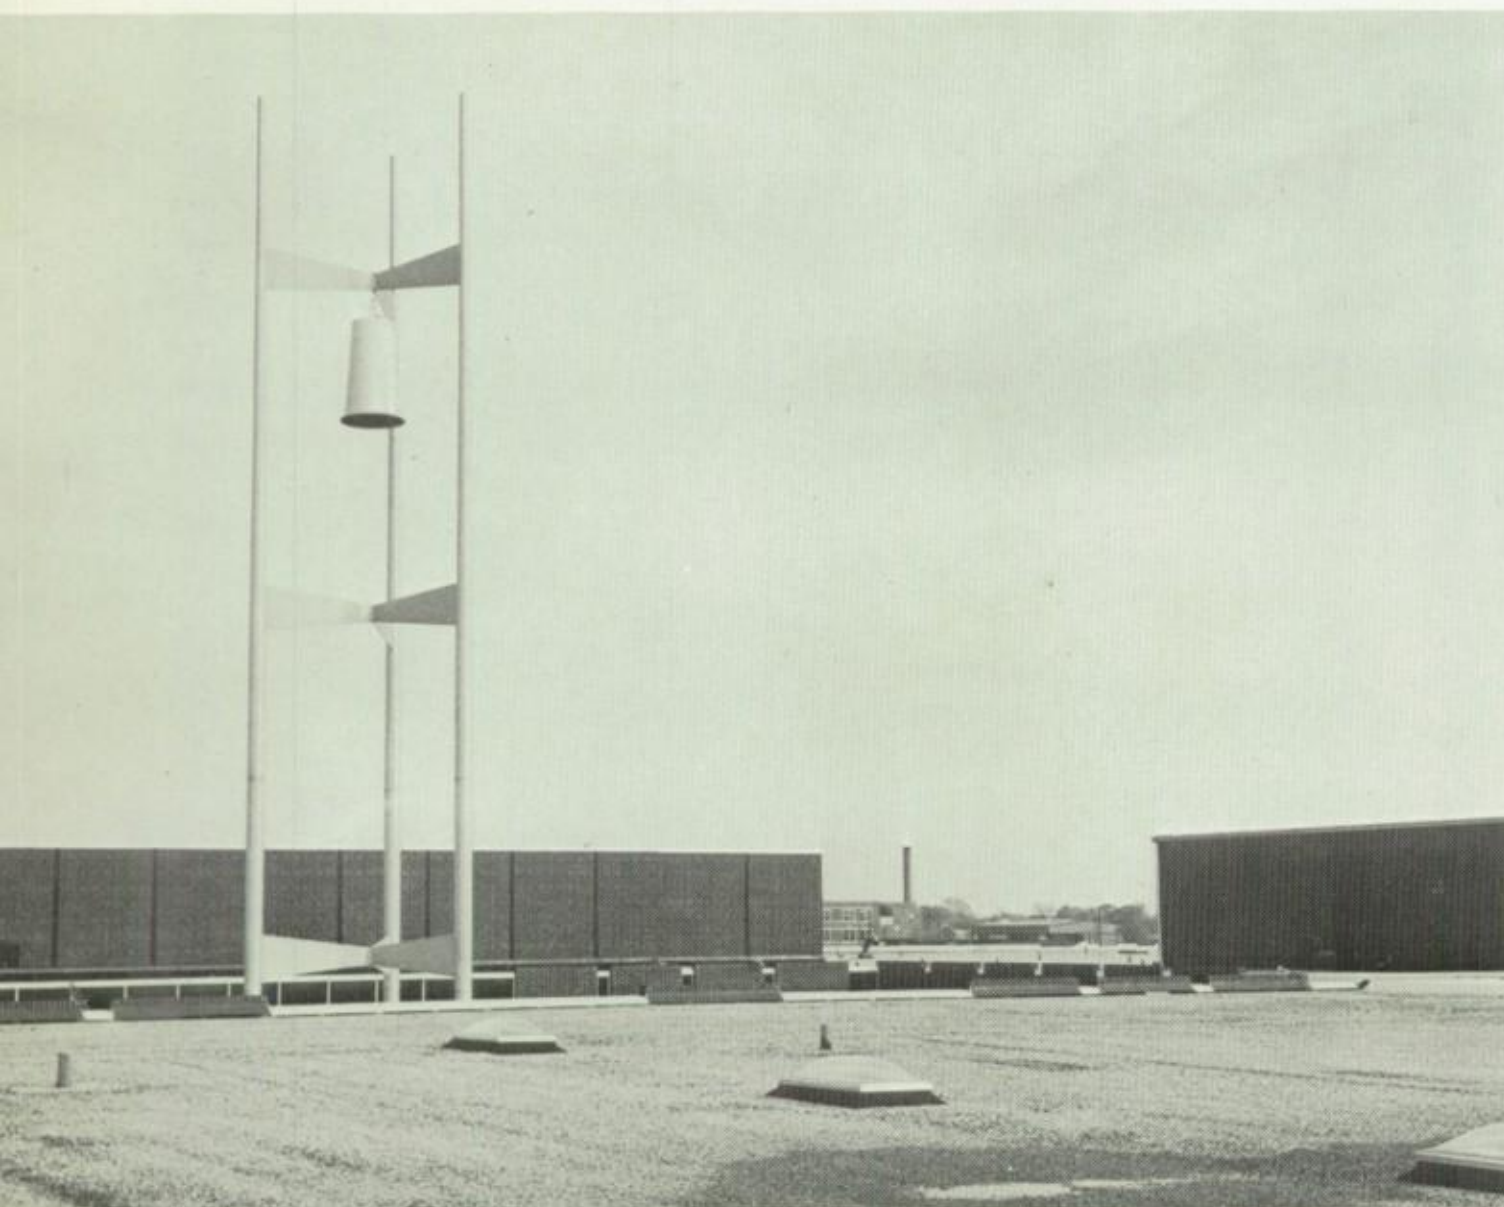

Filling out an IBM sheet, Debbie Lane begins the grade system. Mrs. Sue Lantz and other teachers filled in the grades. Then at the end of the six weeks, cards were distributed in the homerooms.

Nature

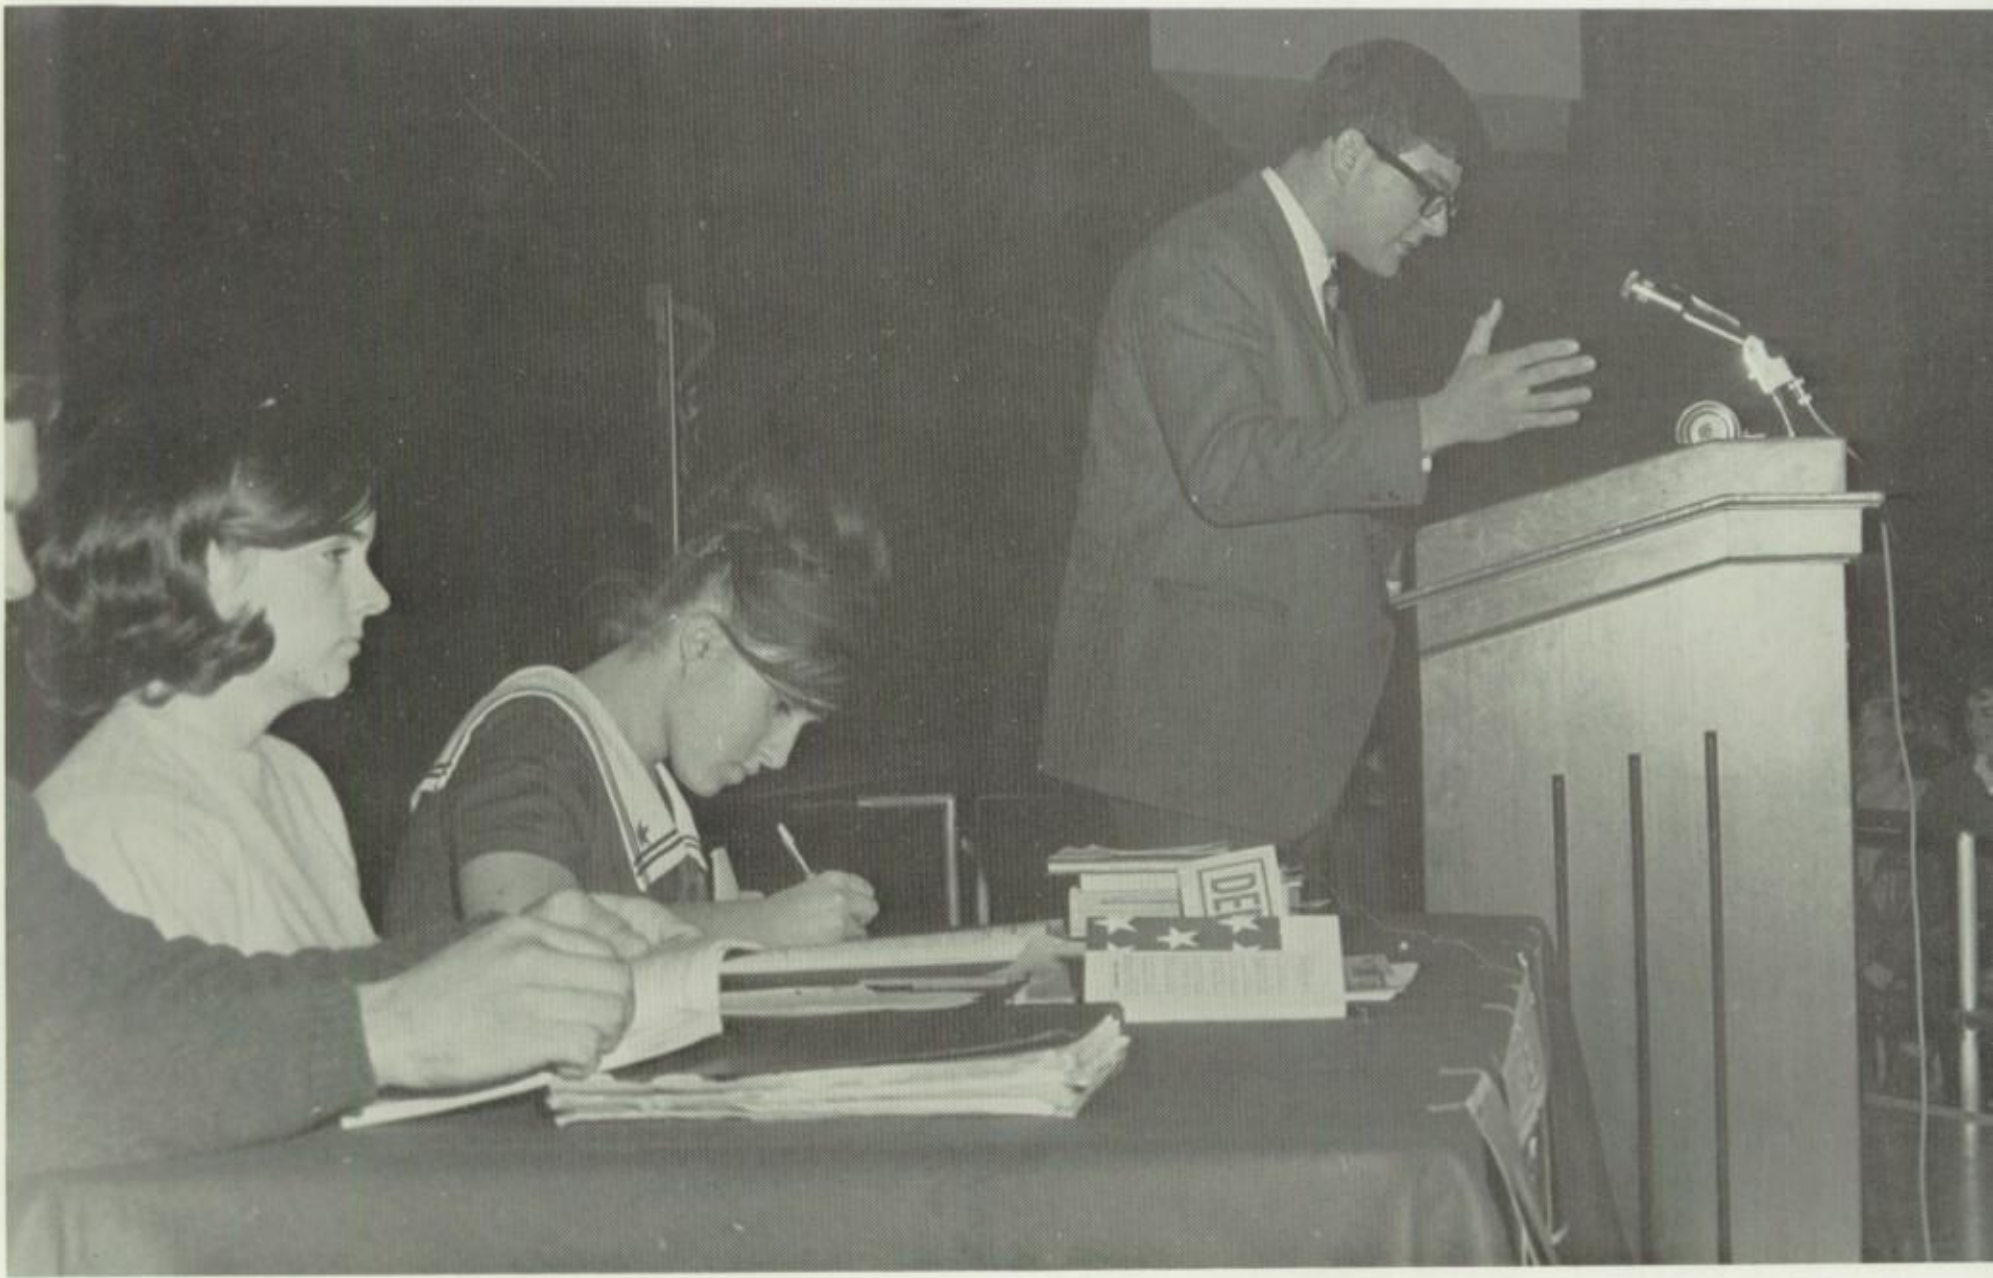

Accents Modern Design

As LC opened its doors, pride and enthusiasm spread throughout the ultra-modern building. It was reflected through the students' determination to work toward life's goals.

LC's facilities provide the best in education. The courts reminded students of the seasonal beauties: the crispness of the autumn air, the anticipation of a deep snowfall, and the abundance of nature in the spring.

Convocations Give Entertainment

As part of the Election Workshop, a week long series of convocations in the fall, several students participated in a political debate. Here Don Lamar delivers his views while Joan Markey and Barb Pleva prepare rebuttal.

Displaying his abilities in rhythm and music, organist Dave Green spent a morning entertaining Centralites.

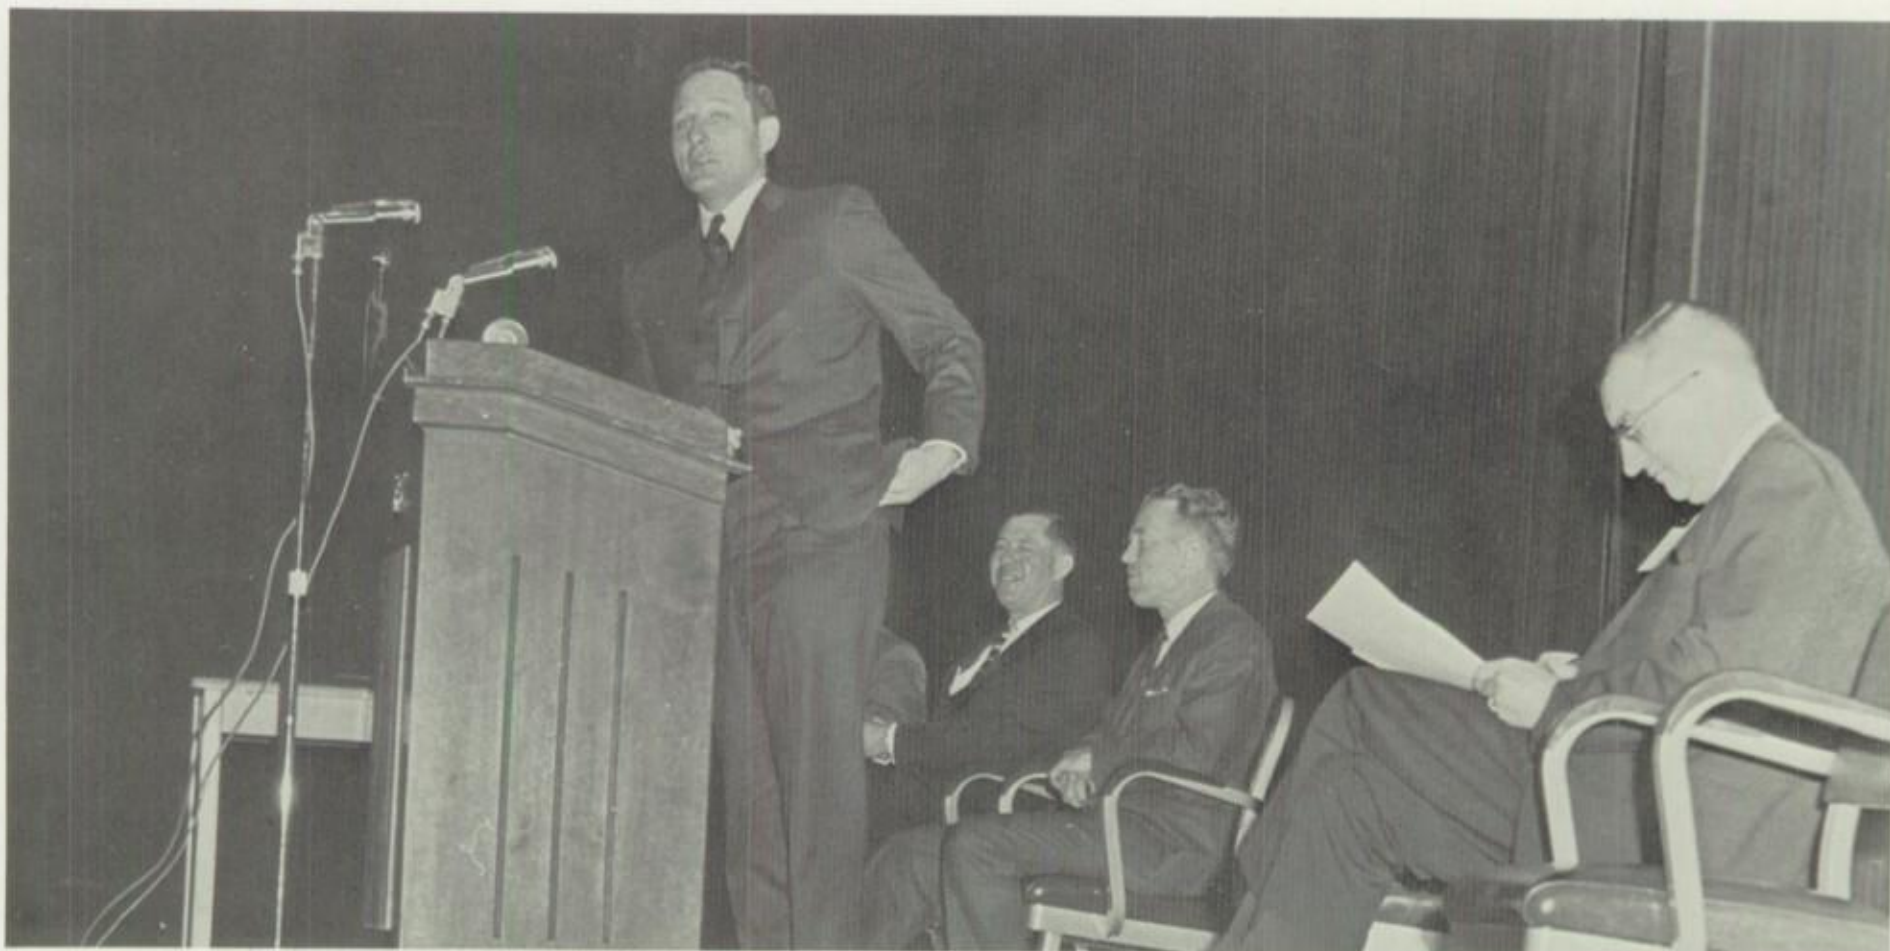

The Fiddler (Mike Denny) pauses menacingly over Bearman (Tom Throne) in the annual yearbook skit convocation.

Mr. Lee Quinn explains the principles of his work as a steeplejack, while volunteer Cliff Priem demonstrates.

Senator Birch Bayh explains the working of government as Mr. Fred Flott, representative to Viet Nam, Mr. Jack Vaughn, director of the Peace Corps, and Mr. Louis Darst prepare for the rest of the Youth Leadership Conference.

Debbie Reigns After Rainy

Homecoming, the magic word of many meanings—floats and mums, queens, the dance, parade, football, and this year, rain.

We all awaited the results of the game which ended in a New Castle victory, 14-7.

The Booster Club won "Most Original" with "Toast 'Em" and the Senior Class won "Most Beautiful" for "Rock Those Trojans." "Grand Champion" and "Best Theme" were awarded to the Junior Class float, "A Trojan a Play Keeps Defeat Away."

Only the queen and court, dried mums, and a few soggy napkins remain.

This year's Homecoming, with its left-over wooden frames and crushed chicken wire, is now a memory. It is a reflection of past Homecomings and the herald of future ones.

Homecoming queen candidates were (from top) Sandy Young, Polly Jongewaard, Kathy Kilrain, Cindy Whitham, and Debbie Davis.

Homecoming

Sadly standing before a window, Terry Ransdell and Sherry Waers watch the rain soak Homecoming.

New Castle players surround a Bear ball carrier as he charges down the field.

"A Trojan a Play, Keeps Defeat Away" was the Junior class theme. Steve Arnold, Mike Musa, Dean Raynor, Duane O'Neal, and Susie Covert were committee members.

Dances Highlight Social Season

"The Days of Wine and Roses," in November, started off this year's round of formal dances. Sponsored by Tri Hi Y, it was held at the IU Medical Center with the Continentals providing the music. Large net roses and wine bottles were used to carry the theme through this enchanting evening, enjoyed by many Lawrence students.

"Ring in 67," the annual New Years Eve dance, was held in the LC Student Center, and all LCHS students were invited to attend. Every couple received festive materials—paper hats, firecrackers, and noise makers—to make the evening more enjoyable. All arrangements and refreshments were furnished by the Class of 1967.

Reliving Roman times was the sensation felt by all who attended the 1967 Senior Dinner Dance. The Theme, "Roman Holiday," was depicted by a shield. Couples dined and danced until midnight at the Ramada Inn to the music of The Cloud.

Senior Class Committee Chairmen, Al Ross, George Fleet, Dawn Chapman, and Mary Murdock, discuss dance plans.

Many Centralites spent an enjoyable evening dancing to the music of the Continentals at "The Days of Wine and Roses."

The Cabaret was held at the Indiana University Medical Center and was sponsored by the Tri Hi Y clubs.

Gaily decorated for Cupid Capers, the Student Center awaits the beginning of another post-game dance.

The Senior Dinner Dance provided a relaxing evening, with the music by the Cloud, for Seniors and their dates.

Centralites Enjoy Opportunity

Surrounded by reference material, Kathy Lee strives to meet the deadline for her term paper.

Advanced art student Andy Trinklein gives his oil still life the final strokes.

Experimenting with the various changes of matter, Mike Ziess, Barb Simpson, and Mark Wilson put their knowledge of chemistry to work.

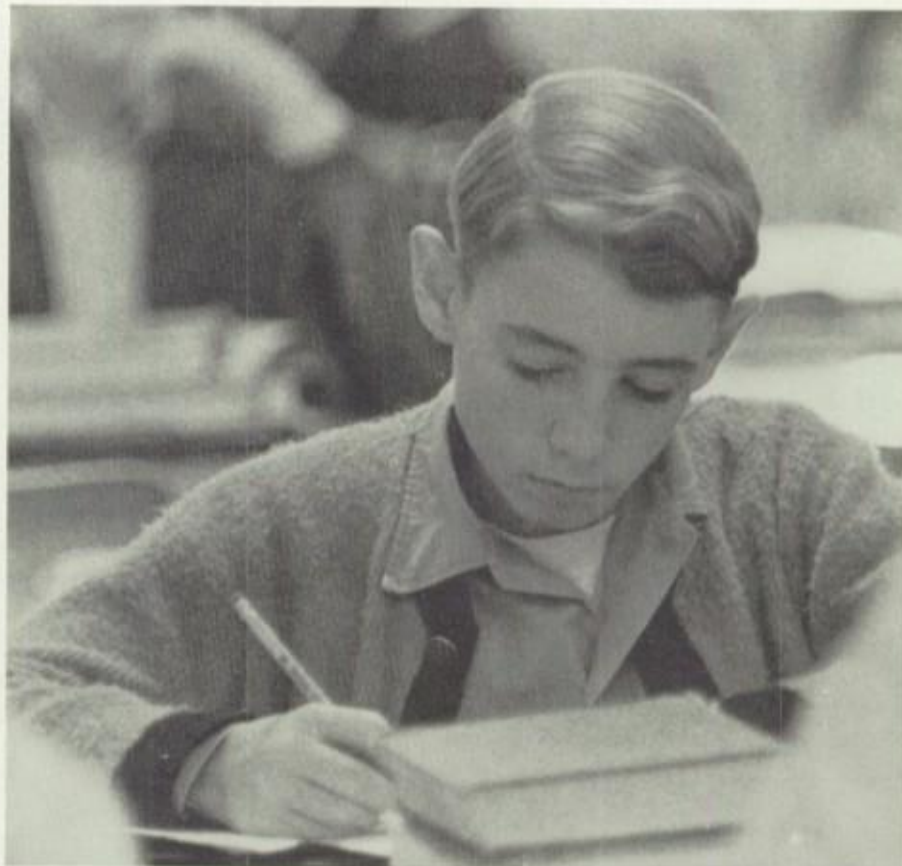

for Learning

The tolling of the bell calls students to the classrooms to become part of the world of knowledge. Since education is the purpose of school, Lawrence Central seeks to challenge the student's ability and provide the facilities to answer his questions. A variety of courses stimulate interest in useful fields whether after graduation he goes to college, starts working, or enters a trade.

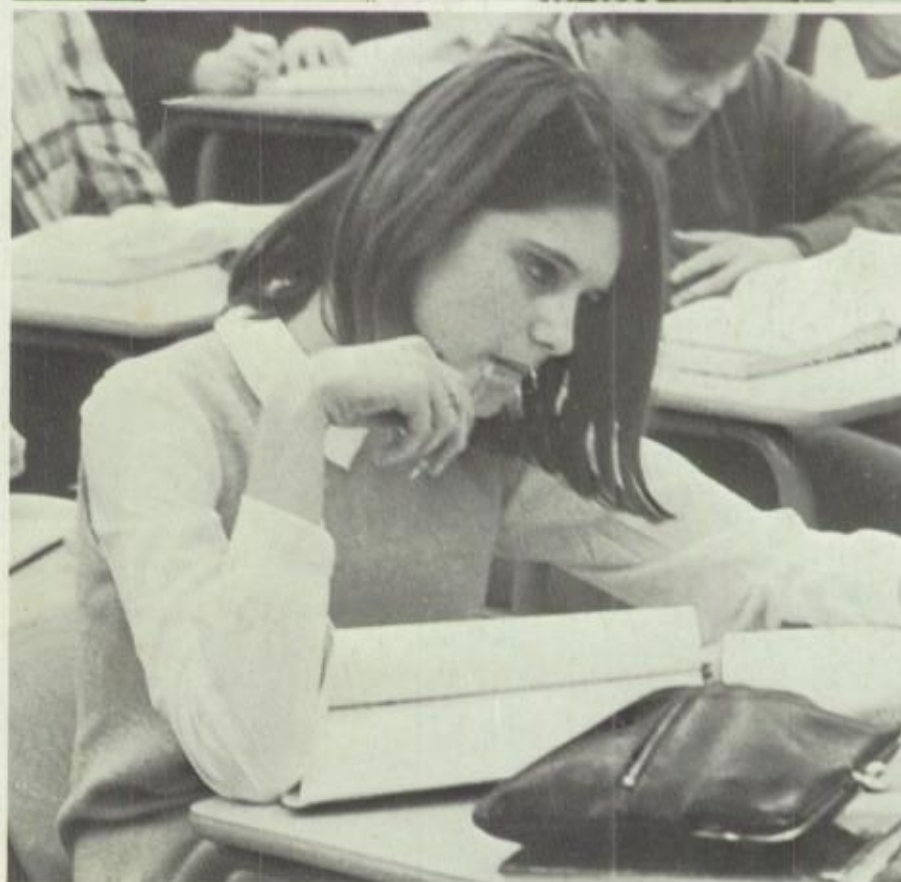

The faculty devotes extra time to the individual problems of their students and takes an interest in their progress and development.

Many class hours are spent in discussions, and class participation is important. Lectures and note taking are also a main part of daily activities.

The combined efforts of faculty and students help contribute to the accomplishments and honors of L.C.

Stan Arnold responds to the opportunity of learning the fundamentals of the voting machine.

It Tolls For . . .

Pausing at the end of a busy day, Principal Louis Darst anticipates tomorrow's activities.

The School Board—Mrs. Roberta Sahm, Mr. Fred Teter, Mr. Robert Jackson, Mr. William Franklin; (standing) Mr. Rutherford Stum, and Mr. William Evans, attorney.

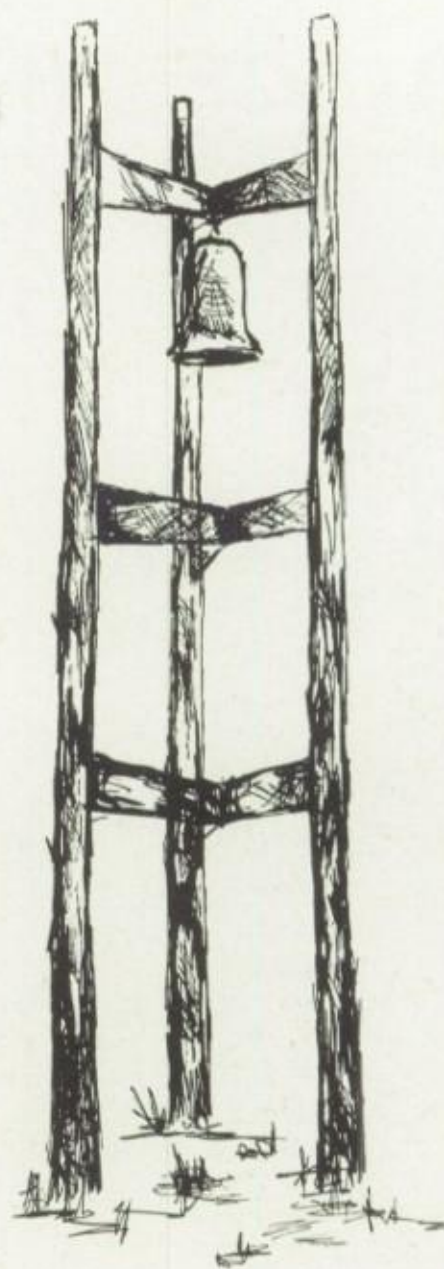

Administration

The administration strives to help each student achieve his individual goals.

The teaching staff has the most important impact on a student's life, for they are the ones who impart the knowledge and the outlook that endures throughout our coming years.

The bus drivers, cooks, and custodians help give the school unity by performing the tasks so important to the school: maintenance, transportation, and food preparation.

Problems of Lawrence Central were only a few of many faced by Mr. Edwin Estell, superintendent.

Advisers Execute Responsibilities

Mr. Max Roush, vice-principal of LC, designates the daily class schedules of every Centralite.

Mr. Max B. Roush, vice-principal, is Mr. Darst's administrative assistant. He is the eager supporter of the Student Advisory Council, and is in charge of the enormous task of scheduling each student and balancing the classes every year. This year, he directed the preparation of the new IBM grade cards.

The counselors provide students with information about educational and occupational opportunities and supervise the college admissions tests. Perhaps their most important job is the personal counseling of students concerning social and scholastic problems. Mr. Walter Dodd, guidance director, coordinates all the above duties.

Mrs. Susan Vititoe and Mr. Carl Underwood, LC's deans, supervise absences and discipline. Their office is responsible for the complete records of each student. After two and one-half years as the Dean of Girls, Mrs. Vititoe left at the end of the first semester. She was replaced by Mrs. Martha Wolf.

Arranging for student absences is an important duty of Mrs. Susan Vititoe, dean of girls.

Mr. Carl Underwood organizes the school parking lot along with his usual tasks as dean of boys.

of Outside Activities for Relaxation

Guiding pupils smoothly through four formidable years of high school and maintaining the high standards of Lawrence Central are the outstanding aims of the faculty. Many new additions were made to the teaching staff at LC this year. These teachers bring in fresh ideas that stimulate student interests.

Besides teaching, the faculty participated in a wide variety of outside activities. A majority of teachers spent their time swimming or bowling. Others used their spare minutes traveling or reading a good book. One of the more popular activities of the women teachers was sewing or knitting.

Above everything, they were educators, dedicating their lives to a career of endless study, homework, ungraded papers and eager students.

Lawrence's custodial and cooking staffs kept the school spotless and students well-fed. Our cooks worked hard to prepare a hot and tasty lunch for over 2,000 students and faculty, and arrived early on special days to prepare "banquet" meals. Working all hours to make the school ready for special occasions, the janitors did an exceptional job.

The clerks in the main office handled mountains of paperwork each day. They saw that the bills were paid, permanent records were kept, transcripts were written, and channeled calls, mail and information.

The bus drivers of Lawrence provided the necessary transportation for most students between home and school.

Weather changes, mishaps and other unexpected events occurred, but the hard working bus drivers and custodians continually helped to keep the school attractive and clean, and got us here on time.

The custodians spend many hours making LC ready for another busy day. Karl Dwyer mops the floor near the trophy case.

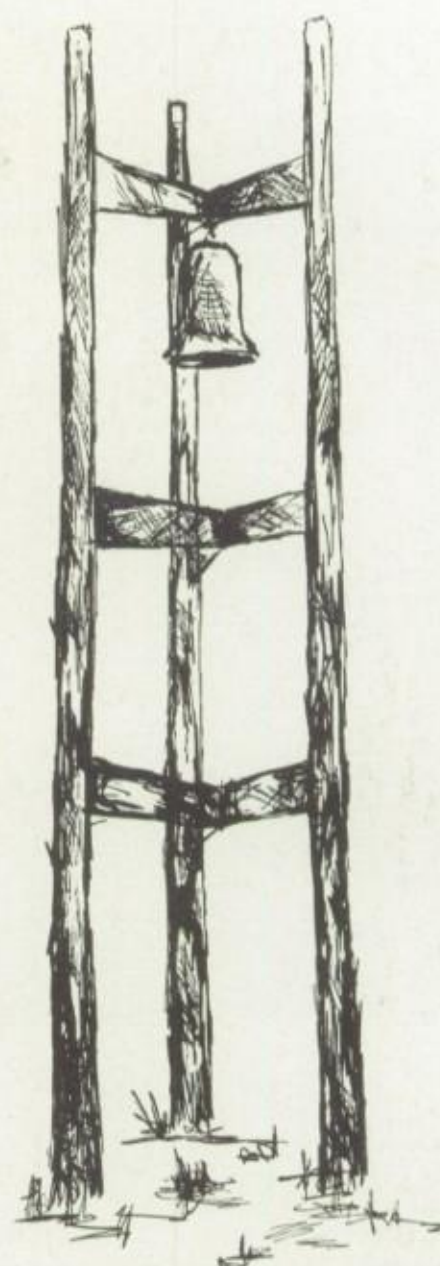

Office Clerks: (Top) Mrs. R. Homsher, Mrs. D. Norman, Mrs. M. Newkirk, Mrs. M. Wildridge, Mrs. H. Hamner. Cleaning up after serving lunch to 2,023, (Middle) Mrs. A. Blamey and Mrs. G. Garret help in the kitchen. (Bottom) Bus drivers are an important part of every school day. Mrs. J. Brune is only one of the women in the ranks.

Academics

High school forms the basis on which our futures are built. It is at Lawrence that we gain the educational development that strengthens an individual.

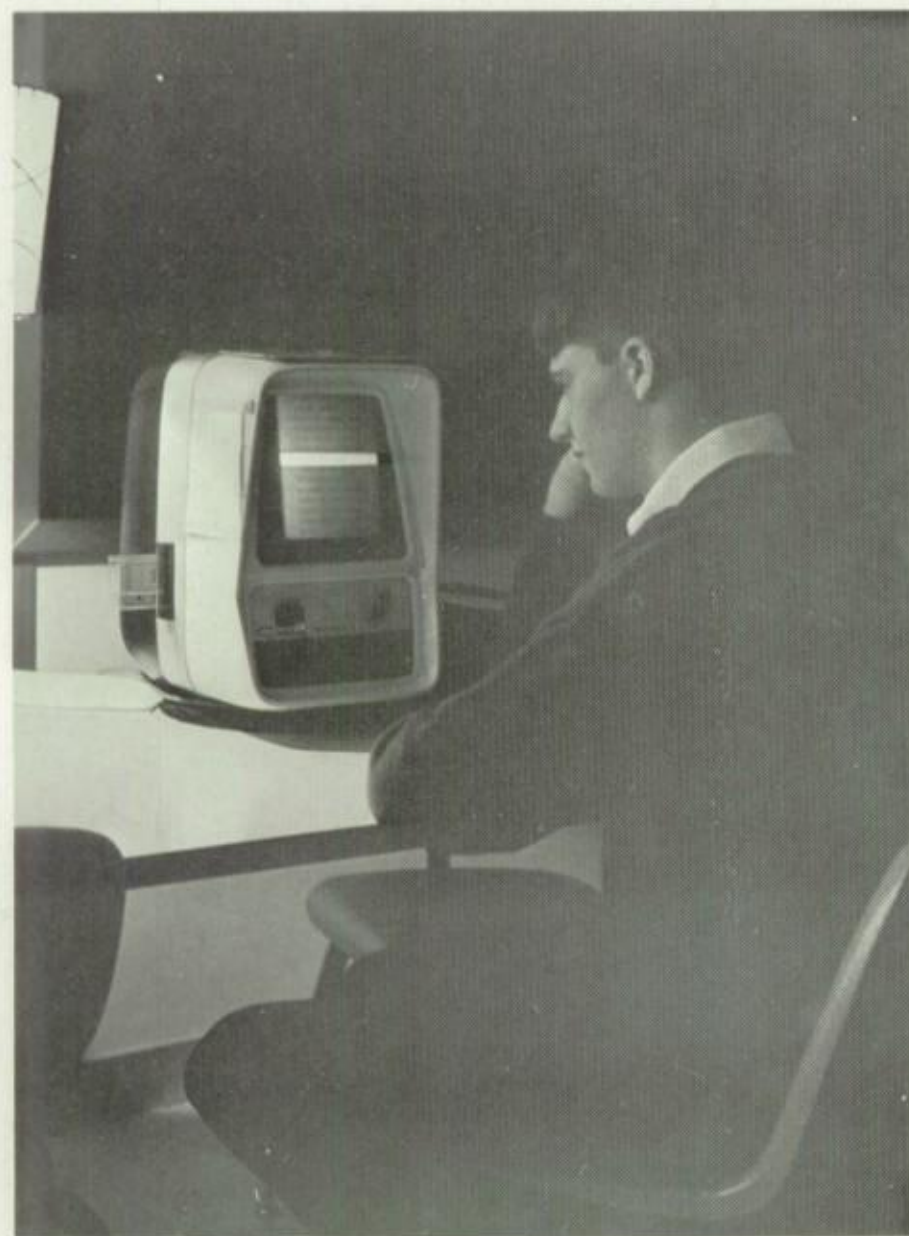

A wide variety of courses allows an opportunity to broaden our insight and accept our responsibilities. The guidance of teachers helps us to mature and recognize the opportunities life offers. Through our classwork we learn to know ourselves, and face the problems of today and of our future.

Academic activities, the real purpose for the tolling of our bell, present Centralites with an incomparable experience in learning.

English Courses Provide Development

Ann Iher and Carol Bennett make practical use of lessons learned in library practice classes.

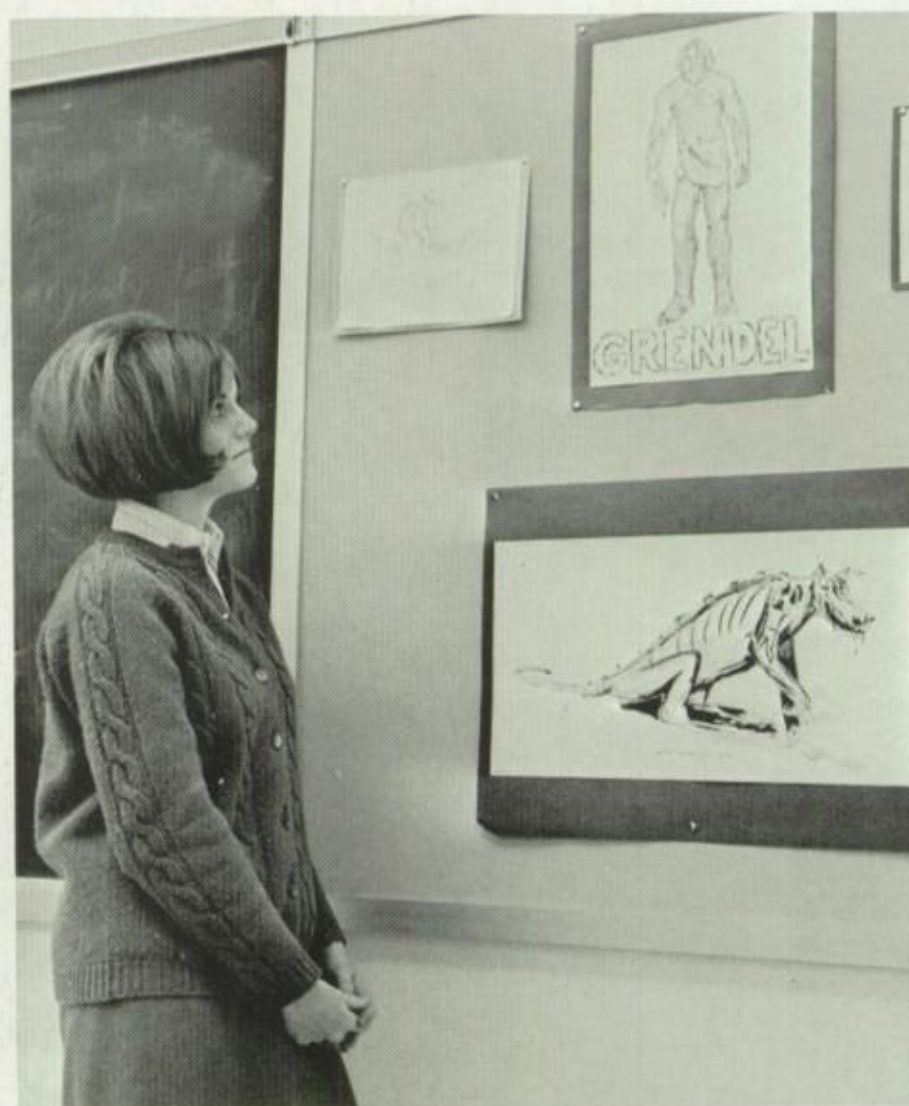

Sophomores and Seniors use the reading lab facilities frequently. Steve Gray reads on one of the Craig Readers.

Knowledge of the English language represents a basic part of our lives. Perfection of the language arts was part of the three-year English program required by all Centralites for graduation.

First year English students got the overall view of grammar and literature. Second year students wrote speeches and perfected reading abilities in the reading lab. Term papers and American literature consumed many hours in third year English.

For the exceptional student, English 4-J, a course involving much creative writing, replaced English 4. Speech emphasized techniques of writing, delivering, and evaluating speeches.

Greek and Latin derivatives, a study of words, helped to improve vocabulary and reading comprehension. Producing, memorizing, acting, and interpreting plays offered the students practical applications in dramatics. Library Practice helped to familiarize students with library methods and trains students who wished to become librarians.

Juilie Parrish admires pictures done by her senior classmates to supplement their daily English assignments.

in Communication

Glenn Collier develops poise and skill as he presents a speech to members of his advanced speech class.

Bill Goshen, as was characteristic of other classmates, searches for appropriate information for his term paper.

Dramatics classes retreat to the make-up rooms below the stage to learn the various techniques of application necessary to create different effects. Betsy Clouse, Al Ross, and Nancy Hardy try their hand at the art.

Members of the yearbook journalism classes concentrate on meeting a deadline at one of their work sessions.

Susie Glazebrook, Marty Young, and Chris Thomas critically view the issue of the CUB REPORTER as they fold.

= Journalism

Bustling activity, created by a jangling telephone, clacking typewriters and hurried editors scurrying after a story represented a typical afternoon for the CUB REPORTER staff. Working under the watchful eye of Mrs. Judy Otto, adviser, 56 students strived to meet deadlines for their bi-weekly edition.

More clacking typewriters from across the hall, where long hours of layout drawing, copy writing, cropping pictures and revising proofs were combined into the 1967 BEAR'S DEN, gave evidence of another staff working.

Providing leadership and experience from the fall subscription campaign to the final deadline, Mr. Monte Hensley toiled many hours as yearbook adviser.

News Bureau staffers acted as correspondents to the local newspapers, sending in a record of LC's activities and achievements.

Light flashes served as a guide to the nearest shutterbug, as the five photographers captured shots for all three staffs.

Surrendering weekend plans and after school time, first year students soon learned just how much effort a publication requires, as well as the basic principles of journalism.

Foreign Tongues Reveal Traditional

First year French students, Louis Katz and Judy Crawford drill each other on one of ALM Level One conversations.

Sheryl Hamer locates a German town visited by Honors Program students, as Tom Lochery and Joan McCarthy watch.

During the Spanish Christmas play, Beth Howard crowns Patty Powell as Tony Klebba solemnly takes part.

Native Customs

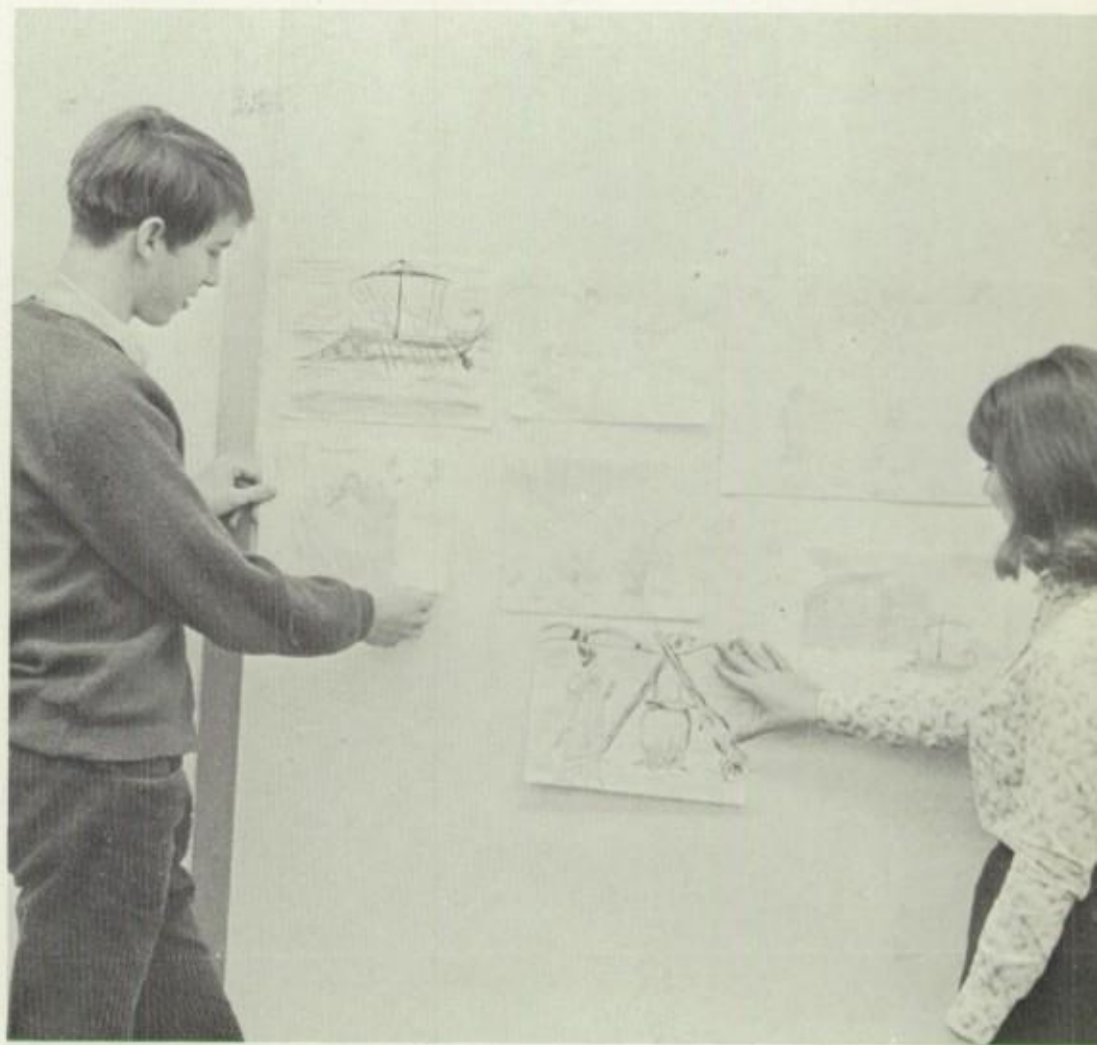

Four years of French, Spanish and German, and two of Latin were offered to interested LC students this year. The novelty of these classes attracted many Centralites, but soon a real interest developed for their language.

The first year of language was devoted to developing a vocabulary, acquiring basic skills, and preparing for the transition into the more difficult reading passages of second year.

In third year classes, the student prepared himself for speaking. If possible, classes were conducted in the chosen language.

Fourth year dealt mainly with literature. Modern books and the classics were read and discussed in the foreign language.

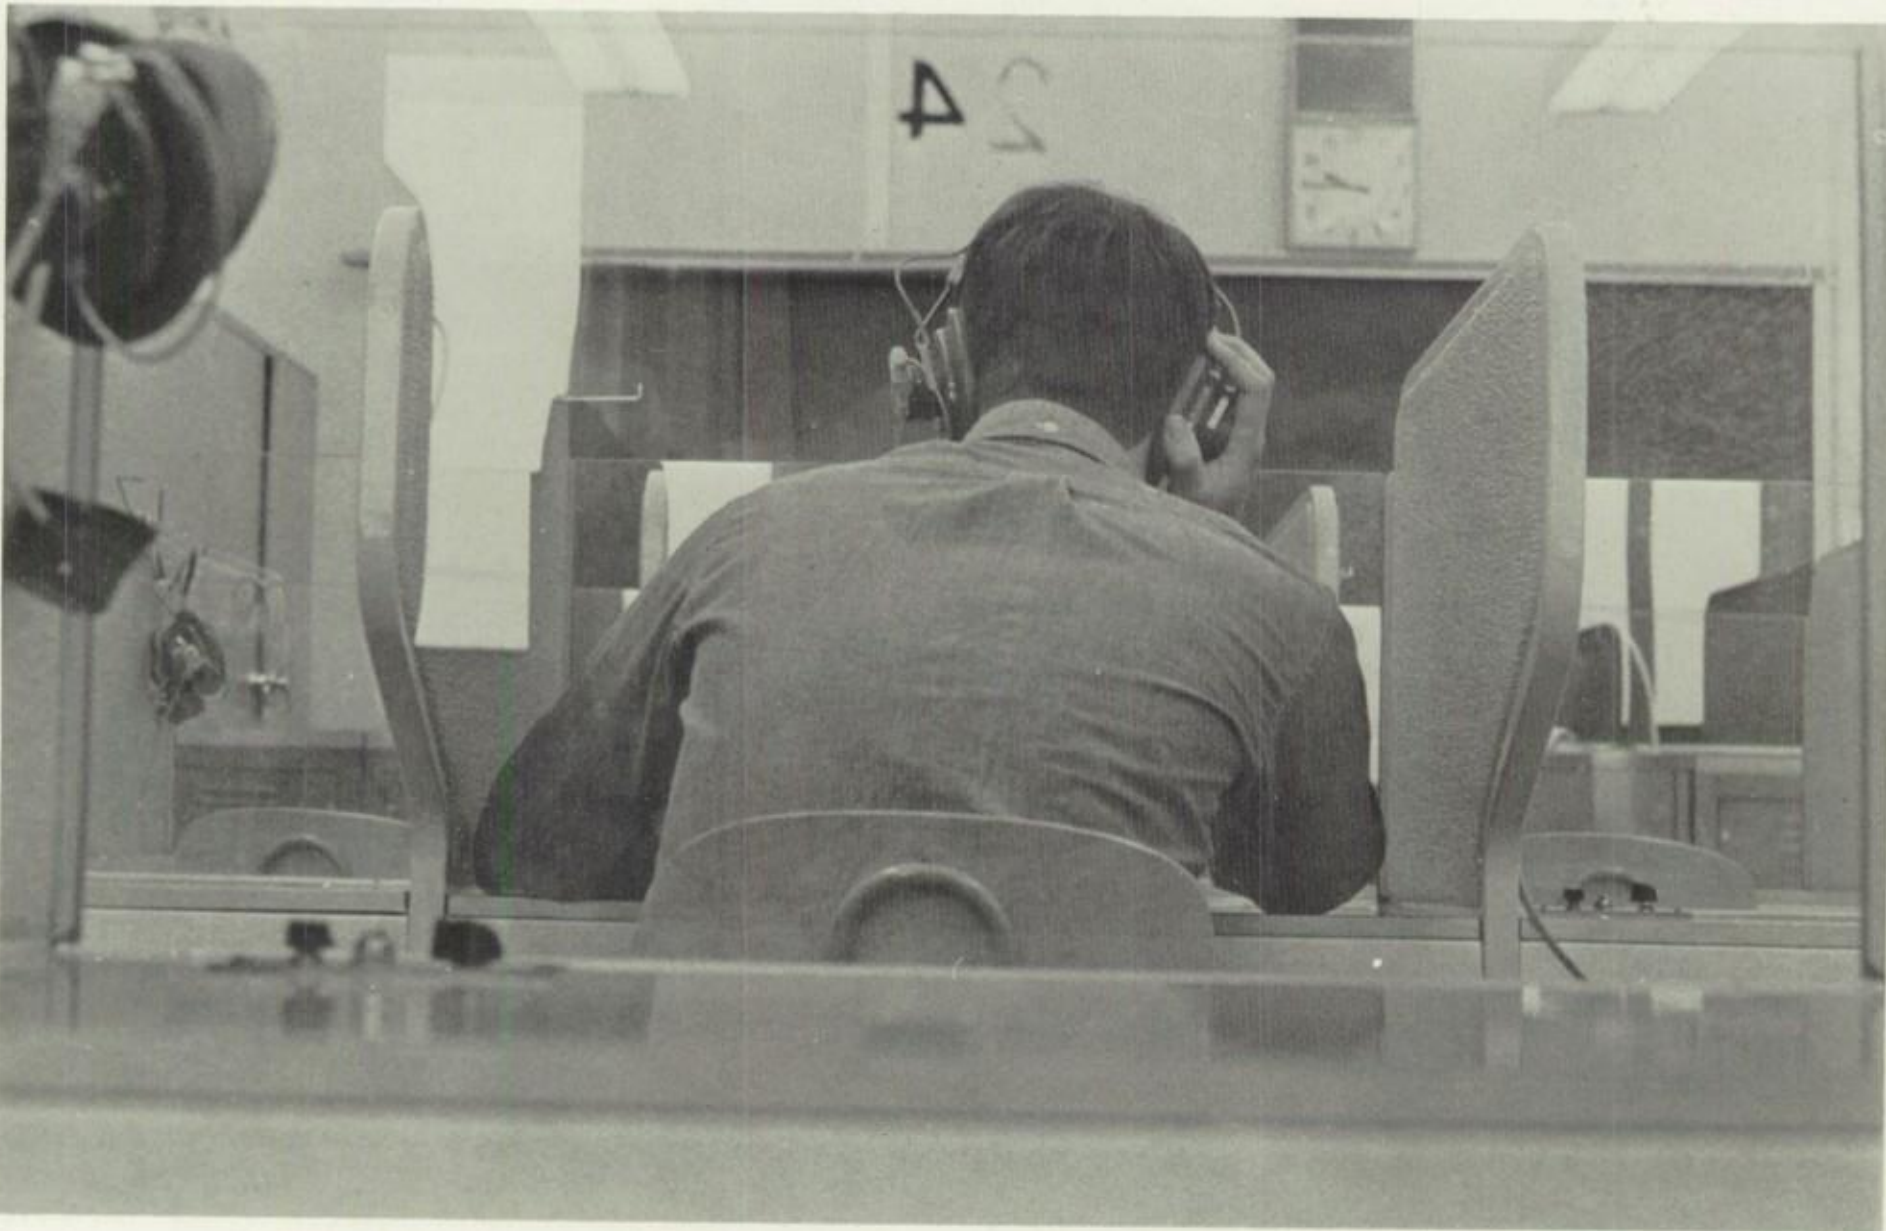

To achieve fluency in the chosen tongue, emphasis was placed on speaking like natives. Students were encouraged to continue with their language studies, so that they may come to understand their chosen language, country, and people.

Latin students, Jim Pyle and Cathy Camp, examine art work done as a supplement to create interest in translation.

Foreign language students are introduced to the language lab sometime during their class. In the lab, students can listen to taped speeches or essays in his second language without disturbing another student in the next cubicle.

By practicing his class lessons on a blackboard slide rule, Jerry Byerly learns the mechanics of its operation.

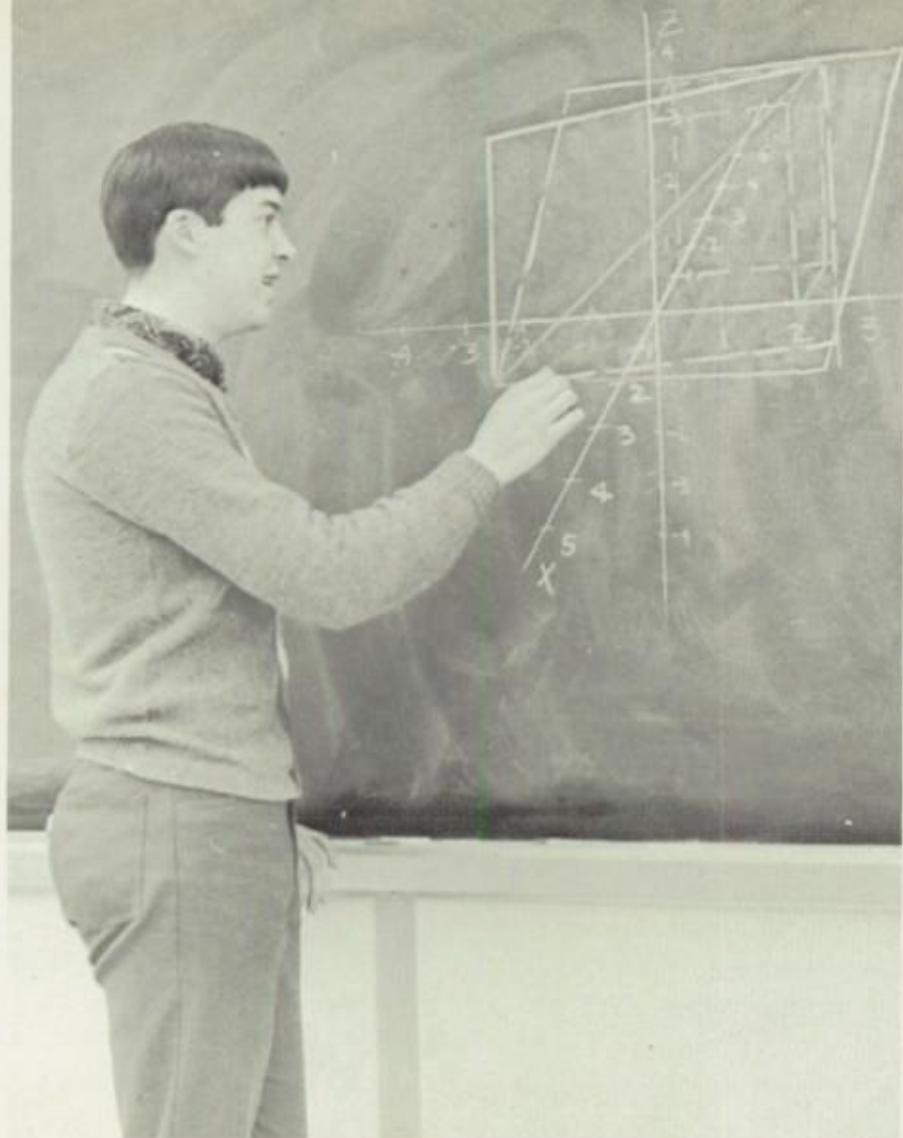

Mrs. Phyllis Alspach explains her homework assignment to students Jeff Algaier, Gary Rhea, and Jackie Wilkinson.

Math Reviews

Intensely studying circles, triangles, cubes, and squares, all Centralites studied at least one, and sometimes more, areas of mathematics. Every math course now offered was based on modern methods, which some students found more difficult than the traditional way. In modern math, however, students learned why they use certain operations, not just how to perform them.

A large variety of math courses has been developed to meet the wants and needs of the student body. General math helped some Centralites to obtain a basic mathematical foundation. The two years of algebra offered at LC not only gave a general knowledge of algebra, but also helped students develop a firm background for the more difficult college math courses. Trigonometry and college math were offered to those math majors planning to attend college. Both courses, which reviewed facts from previous experience and built new lessons on this past knowledge, helped prepare students for their future careers. Math scholars have a place in everyone's future.

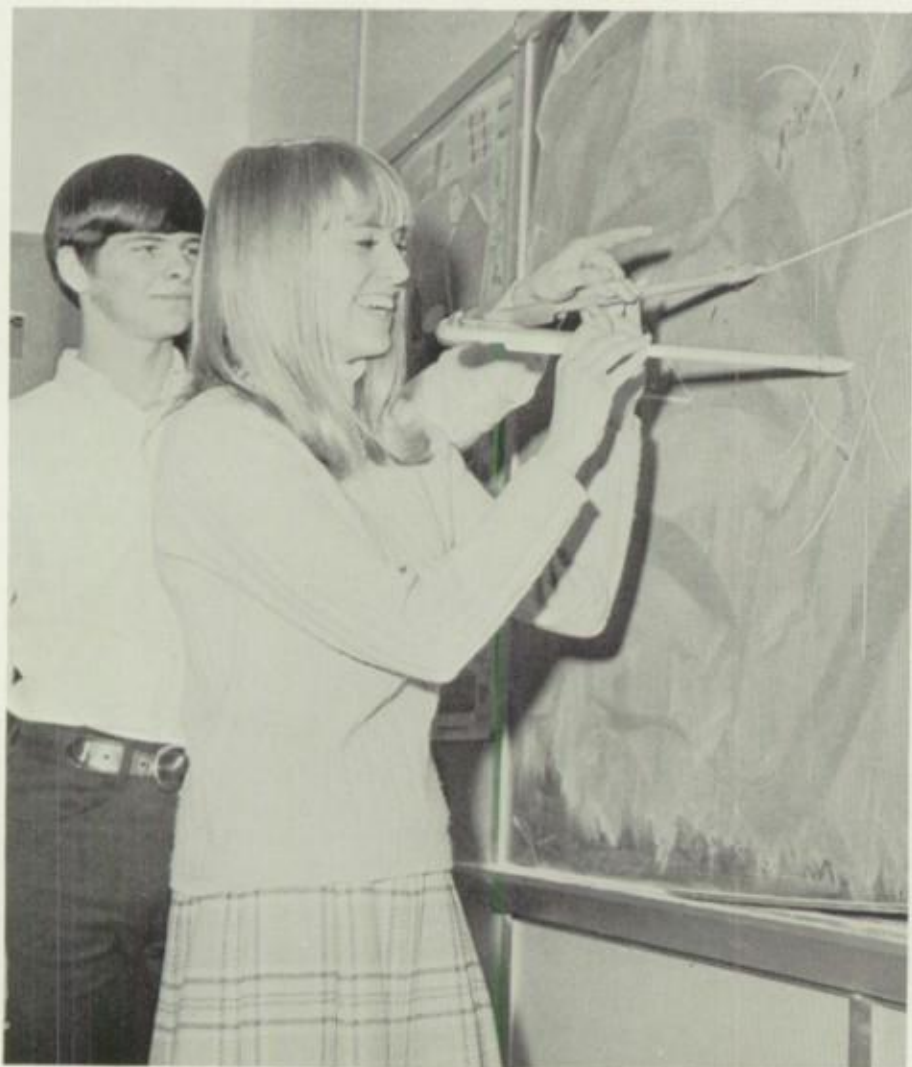

Taking time out to think, Rand McKamey attempts to illustrate a more difficult problem in trigonometry.

Mary Ann Weaver explains the number line, an important concept in algebra, to Dave Winter.

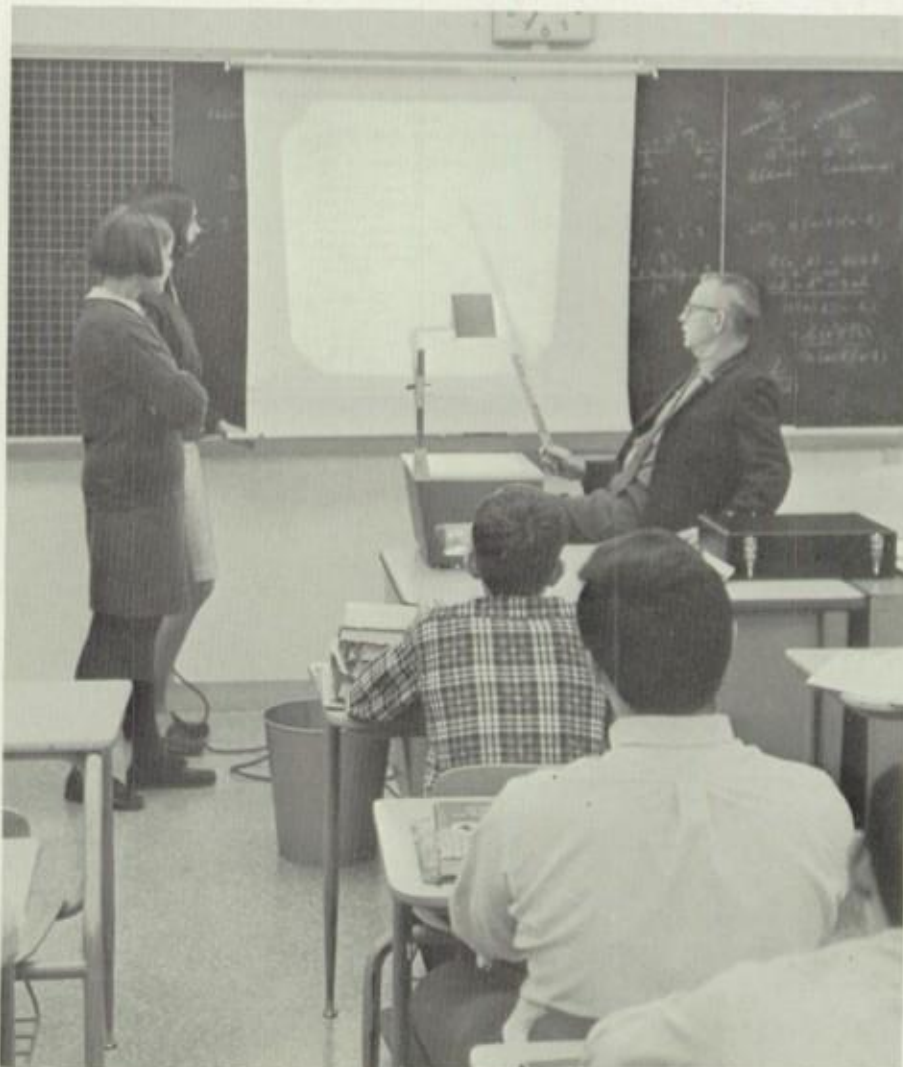

Previous Material, Builds New Facts

Allen Herd points out to Linda Johnson that drawing perpendiculars in geometry isn't as easy as it looks.

Mr. Shyrl Craig shows a few basic processes to Theresa Kolb and Caryn Sholty in an advanced algebra class.

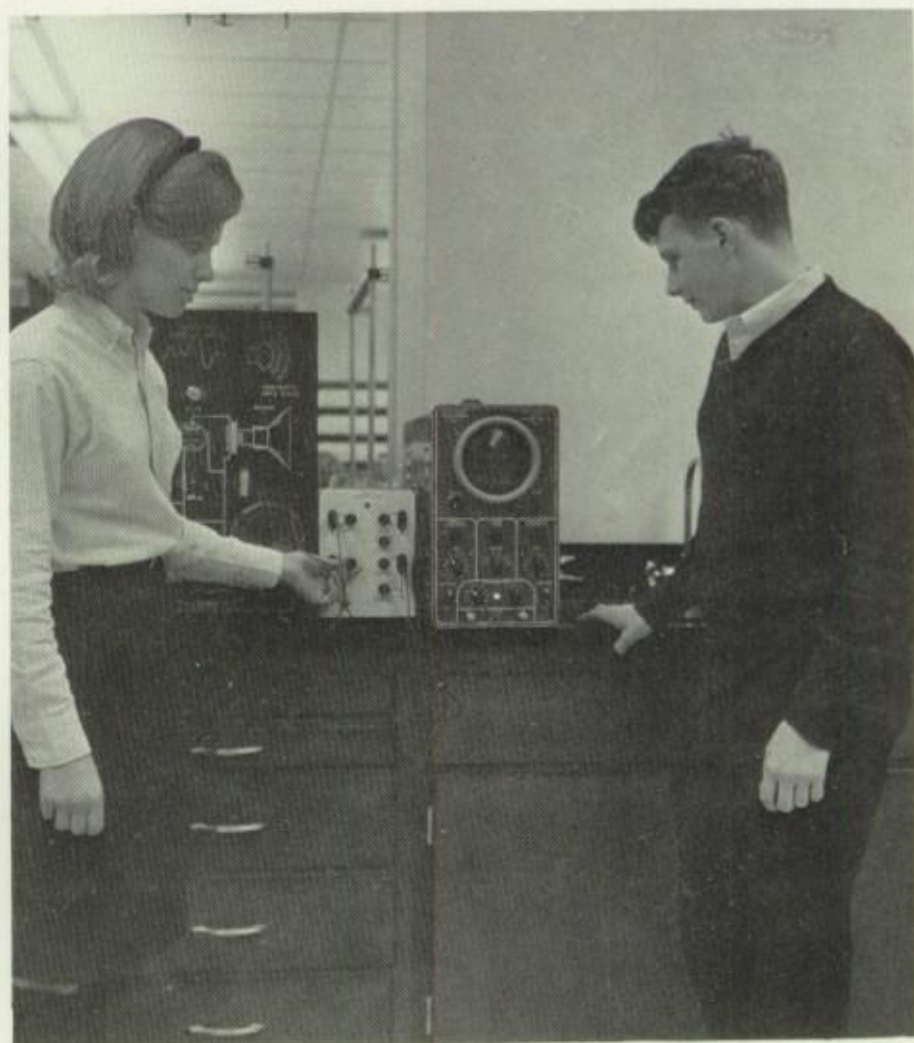

Lectures, Practical

LC's Science Department had something for everyone. The various courses offered gave each student a chance to develop his interests. Biology was offered for those who enjoy studying living things. This basic course is a prerequisite for zoology, the study of animals, and botany, the study of plants. If one is interested in mathematics and the physical side of science, physical science, chemistry, and physics were available. Students who desired advanced study in this area, could take advanced chemistry and advanced physics. Next, physiology, the study of the functions of an organism, combined biology and chemistry were offered. Lastly, plant and animal sciences were presented alternate years for those interested in agriculture.

The Science department backed up the many courses with excellently equipped laboratories. Equipment such as balances, Bunsen burners, test tubes, and dozens of chemicals were used in the Science department. The growing room in the center research area held many different plants and an aquarium of tropical fish.

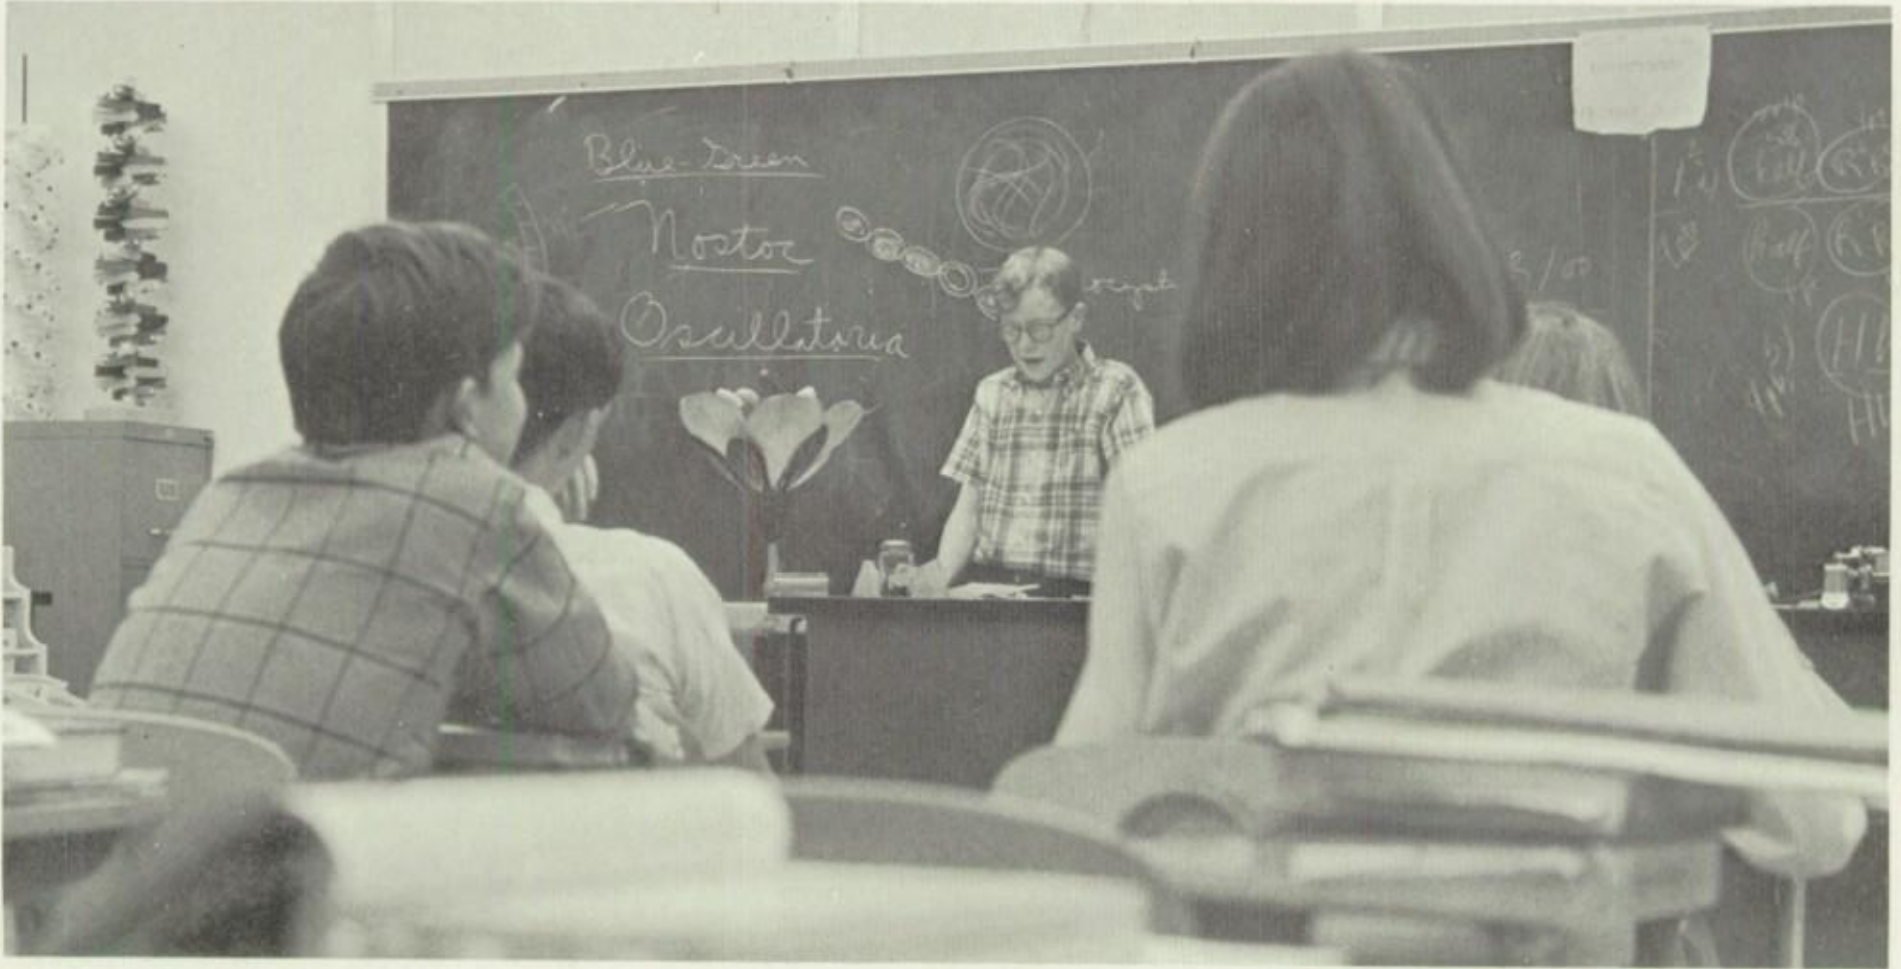

Extracting blood for a red blood count are physiology students (Top) Janett Swartley, John Dubbs, and Cheryl Hoppes. Cutting a plant start (Middle) is John Rainey, head of the growing room, with the assistance of Jerry Applegate. Jerry Zike and Doug Gordon (Below) experiment with the effects of smoking and cancer on mice.

Mary Cauble and John Clark, senior physics students, observe a square wave on the oscilloscope.

Experience Broaden Knowledge

Class reports are an important part of many science classes. Freshman Robert Jenkins takes an active part by giving a report on primitive plants to his Biology class.

Discovering the normality of a solution, Susan Garber and Bruce McLaren perform a titration in Chemistry 1.

Phil Harris gets a collection trough for Greg Cotton from the chemical storage room in the center science area.

Social studies classes were sparked with various interesting and useful things necessary to create a better understanding of knowledge. Senior, Tom Bell uses one of the many maps in the area for international relations.

Social Studies Creates Awareness

Susan Hastings displays a relief map of Spain, one of the many projects done by world history classes.

Occasionally, tape recorders find a place in social problems' classes. Mr. Leland Dilk prepares for the class work.

of Our World

Factual data, development of the American Heritage, and mechanical functions of different nations were presented in the social studies courses at Lawrence Central.

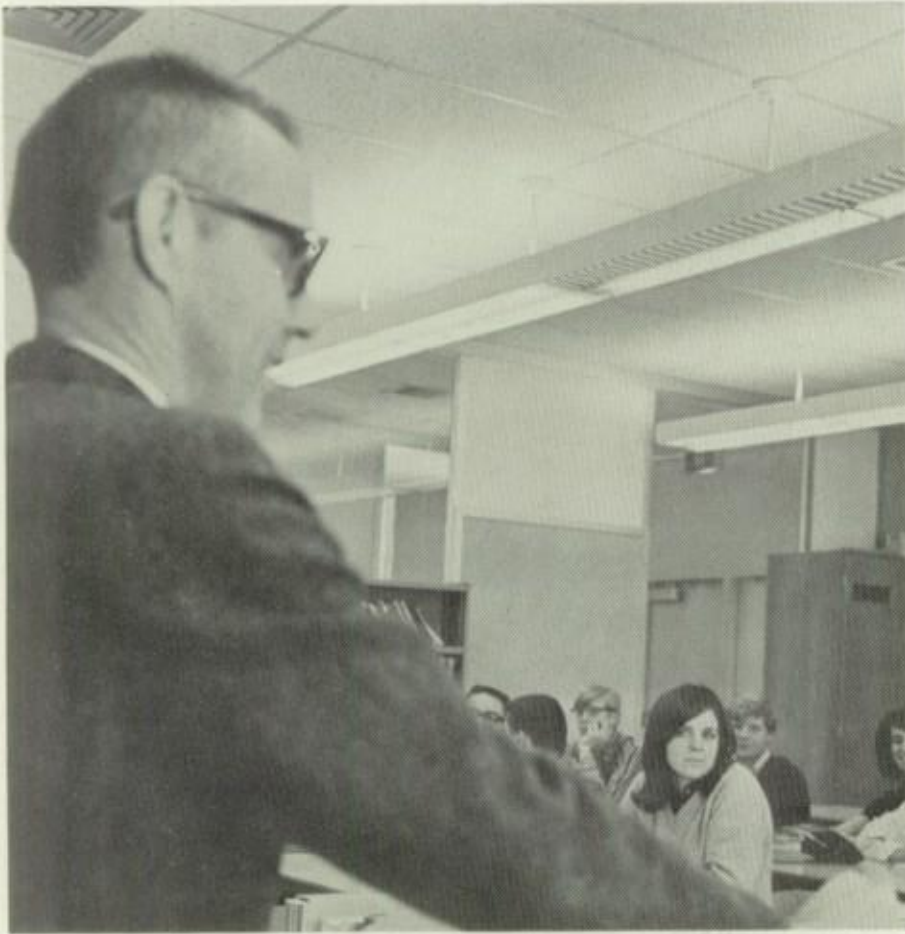

Freshmen and sophomores learned of the historical and geographical backgrounds of other countries when they took the world history and geography courses offered. Our American Neighbors projected to students an interest about nations close at hand. Juniors were required to take the United States History course, necessary for graduation. This course illustrated the development of our American Heritage from colonial times to present day.

Government and economics were two of several one semester courses taken by high school seniors as a requirement for graduation. Economics gave students the basic understanding of economic systems. Government dealt with the mechanical functions of our country. Psychology and social problems helped promote understanding of problems of mankind. International Relations provided insight into the events behind today's headlines. Through these courses, students developed a greater understanding of the world around them.

Government students learn of many of the U.S. involvements, as Ken Harner, senior, illustrates.

Business Education Builds Leaders

Listening attentively to Mr. Jack Felger, salesmanship students learn the various methods of presentation.

All first year typing students spend class time working to increase their typing rate as well as their accuracy.

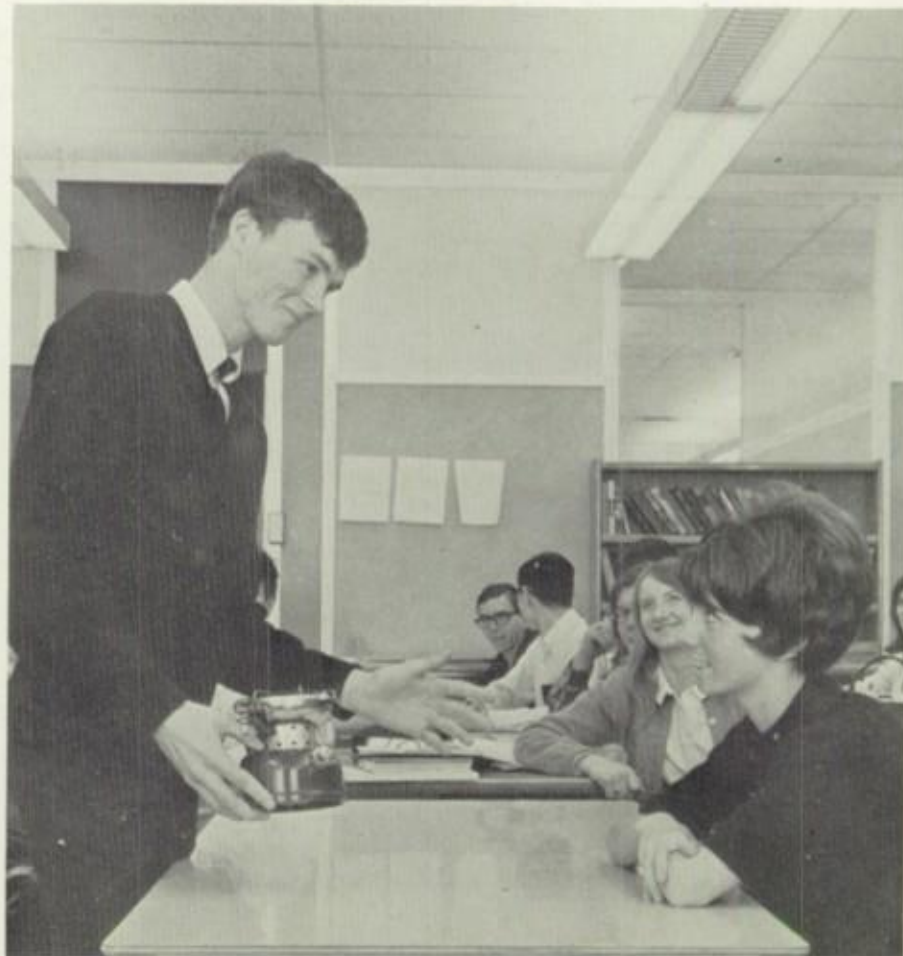

Skill in shorthand is acquired after many hours spent in dictation as well as in transcribing, which fill scores of stenographers notebooks. Glenda Parrish practices a difficult series of characters from her textbook.

Through Lawrence Central's extensive Business Department, students learned the basic fundamentals of the business world and how to apply them to future success.

In the beginning and advanced typing classes, pupils learned the proper manipulation and technique of the typewriter. Students developed the skill of operating machines in the business machines course. Developing speed in taking dictation was one of the goals of the shorthand classes. Future secretaries strived each day to build their speed in this essential course, while others learned how the law applies to business in business law. Consumer economics dealt with the capitalistic system of enterprise and the economic society under which our country labors.

In general business and bookkeeping, students acquired the basic skills of management. The business administration course was more advanced because it went into the basic fundamentals more deeply. A forward personality was needed in the salesmanship course, because presentation of your product was essential.

With a convincing smile, Chris Kinnick demonstrates his selling ability to Jo Bradshaw during a salesmanship class.

The practical use of business machines is a valuable asset to LC business students, Judy Lynch and Bonnie Bowser.

Vocational Arts

Lawrence Central constantly strived to give pupils better educational training for future vocations. Home economics and industrial arts offered insight on various professions for students.

Industrial arts courses were offered to students on beginning and advanced levels as a prerequisite for future studying in such fields as woodworking, power mechanics, printing, mechanical and architectural drawing, and welding. The students participating in LC's industrial arts program were given practical experience and training so that they might become skilled in the basic techniques of their possible future vocations.

For the future homemakers, home economics was both useful and enjoyable. Students were taught the application of cooking principles and the planning and preparing of nutritious dinners.

The sewing courses introduced students to wardrobe planning and emphasized simple patterns, alterations and garment construction. Besides sewing and cooking, home economics students are offered courses in home management.

Determined to pull the chase from the printing press, David Crownover strains at the hard task in printing shop.

Taking ingredients from the refrigerator, Linda Hofmann and Brenda Glossbrenner prepare a meal in homemaking.

Chips of wood fly as Virgil Johnston shows his skill at tooling a project in a wood shop class.

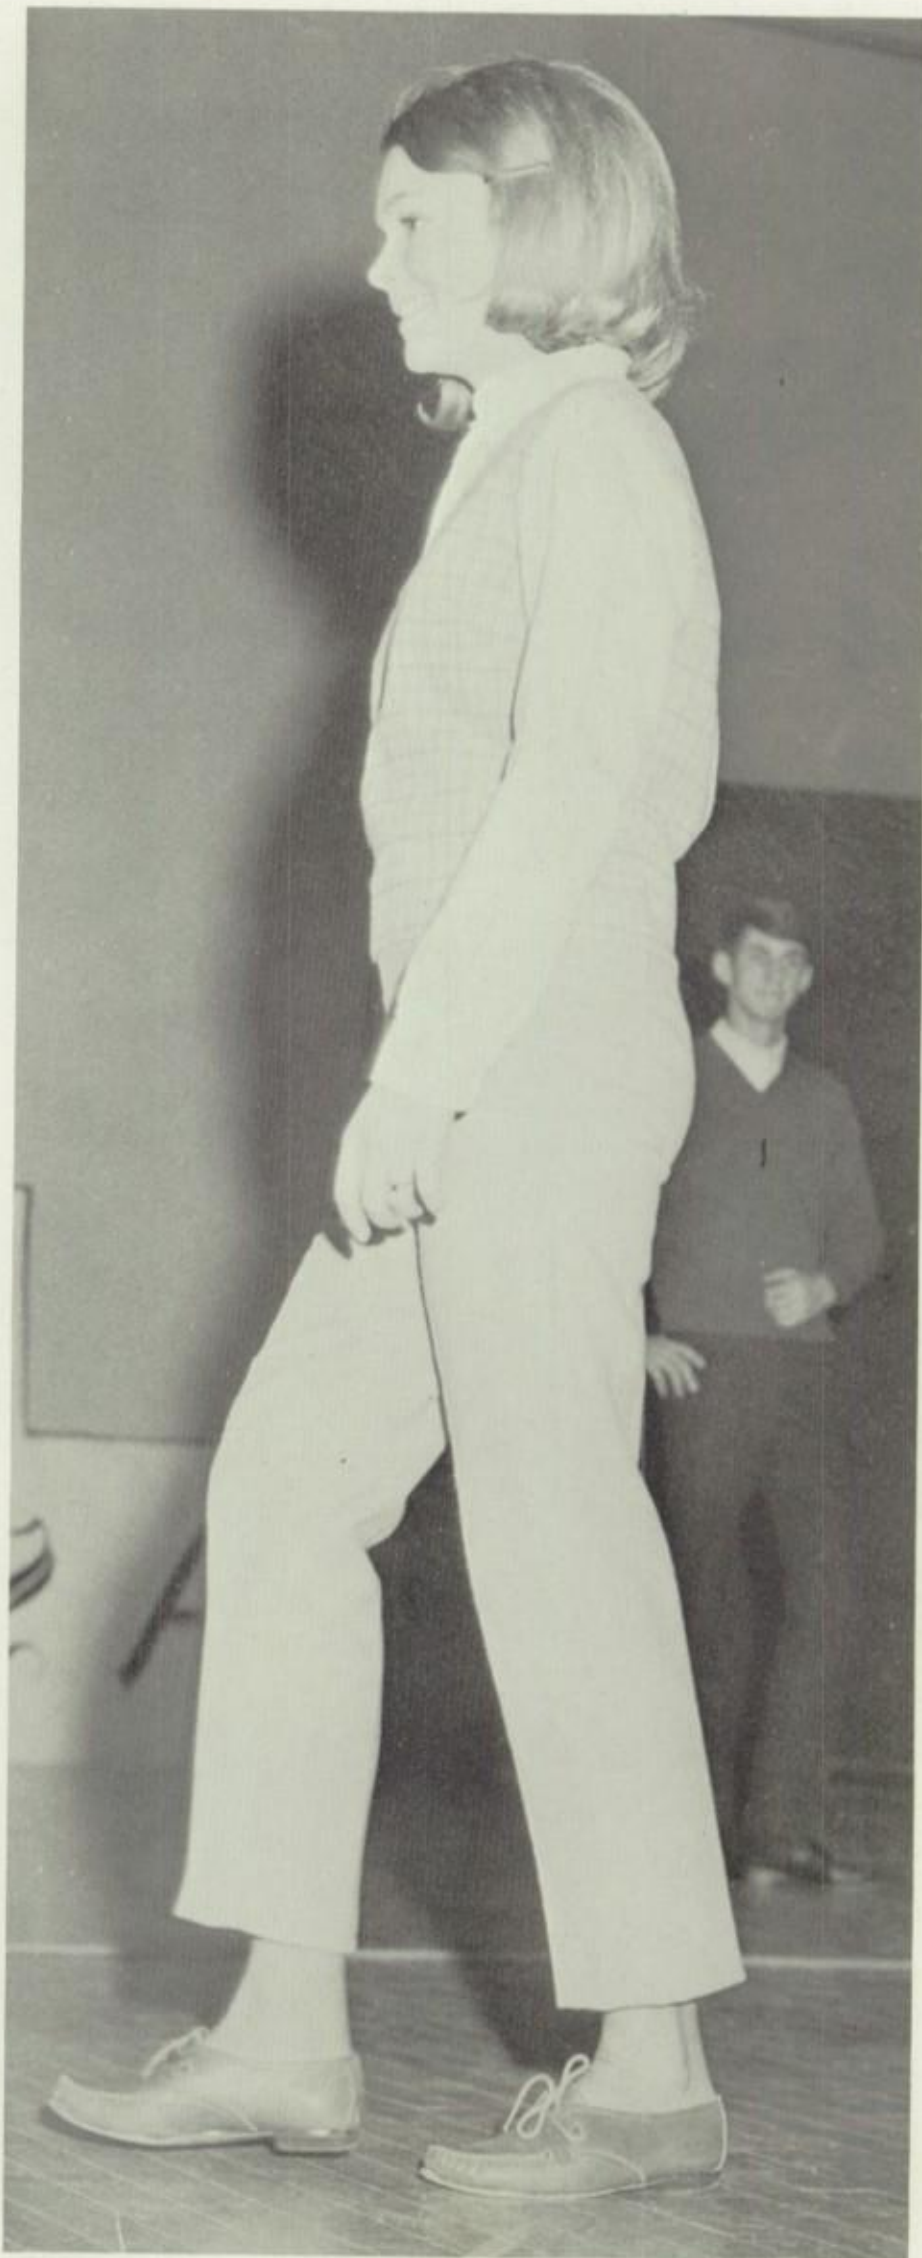

Prepare Students for Useful Lives

The only girl in her mechanical drawing class, Mona Thomas works to achieve her goal of becoming a commercial artist.

Exchanging different ideas on carpets during interior decorating class are Raylene Lindsley and Connie Tynan.

Participating in LC's Fashion Show, Edie Perry models a casual outfit she made in home economics.

Fine Arts, Music Theory Help Create

The John Herrin art exhibit is admired by Betsy Bly and Bruce Ayres. This exhibit is of work by students at John Herrin, is sent to Lawrence Central by the art school and is placed in room 227 annually.

Working to receive a major in music, music theory students listen as Mr. George Amend instructs them.

Displaying her technique in drawing and lettering is Marilyn Stone, sophomore.

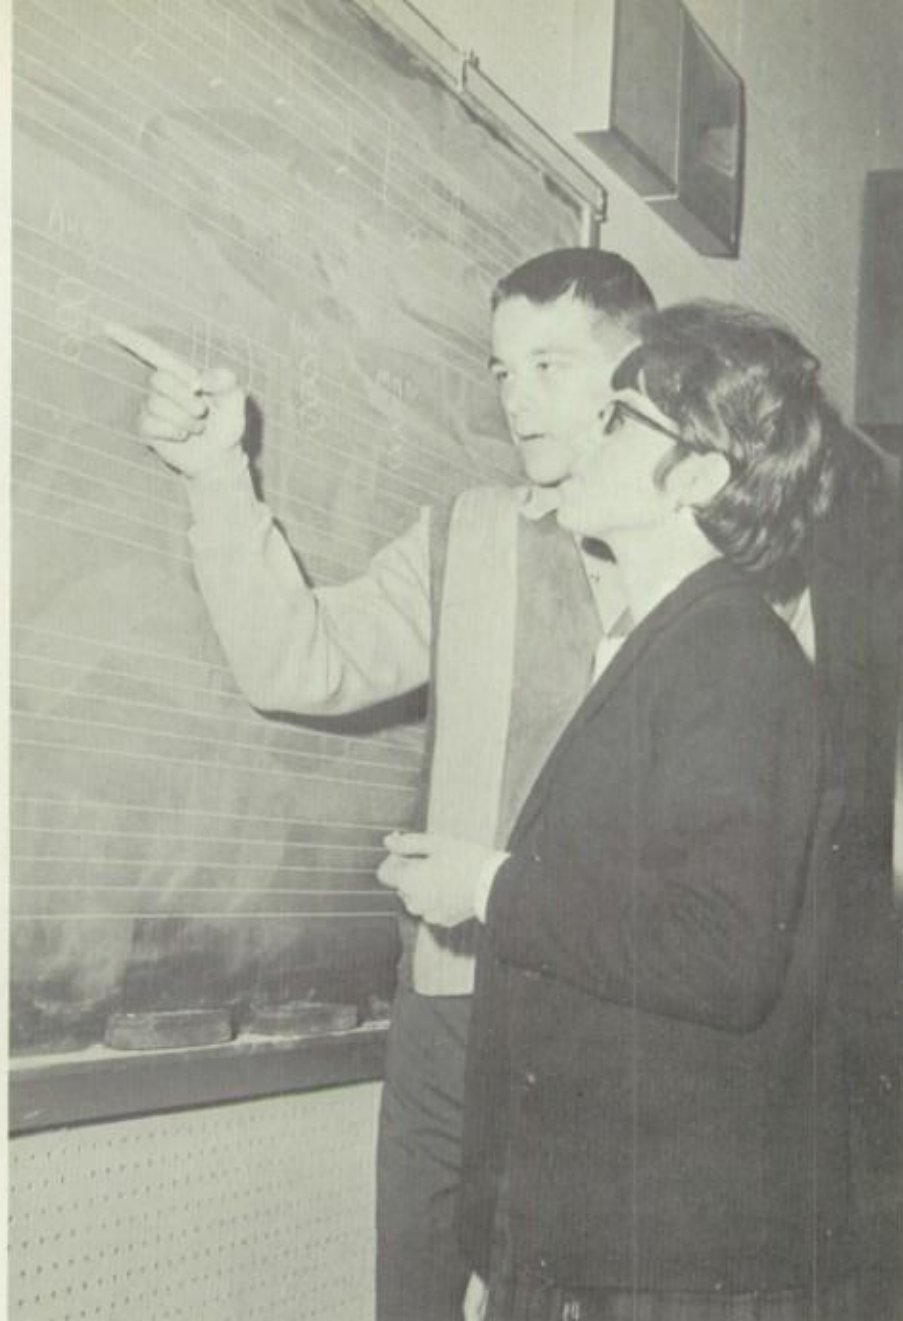

Talented Students

Art classes were offered for the enjoyment and training of future fine and commercial artists. The students were introduced to art material, color theory, and some of the uses of the different media. Another important facet was art history, taught once a week.

Craft classes began use of several new techniques this year, besides ceramics and copper enameling. In all projects, they began with two dimensions and ended with three. During the year, they used metal, mosaics, carpet, and wood in various projects.

The musically-inclined students who wished to have a major in instrumental or vocal music and the ability to interpret the notes and staff took music theory. The course was available to juniors and seniors with three years in instrumental or vocal music, one year of which must be with a performing group.

Music Theory offered insight into music history, pitch, keyboard, and tone. At the end of the course, many students were able to create their own compositions.

Discussing how to form musical chords are George Griffith and Sandy Brotherton in music theory.

Susie Winn, working with a sponge, smiles over the ceramic pitcher she is creating for crafts class.

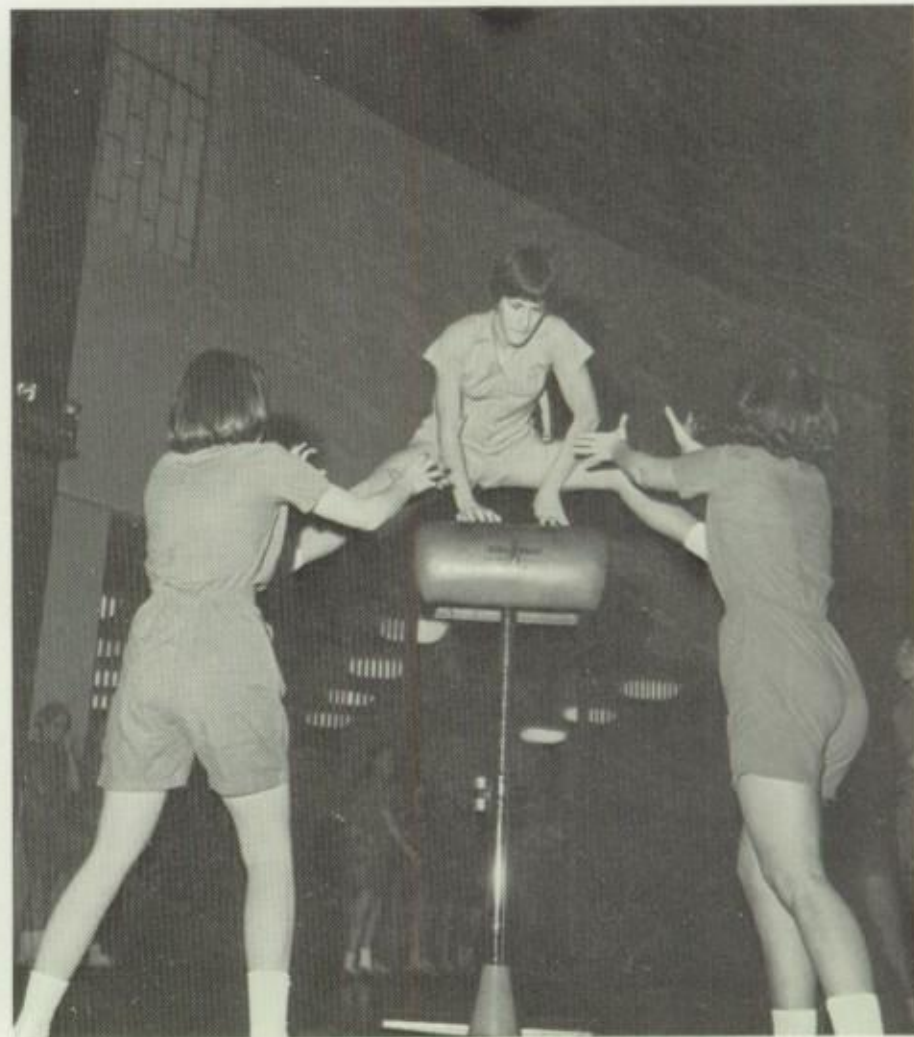

As Liz Pontius poses, Shari Bruton finishes drawing a portrait of her in advanced art class.

Students Achieve Fitness Through

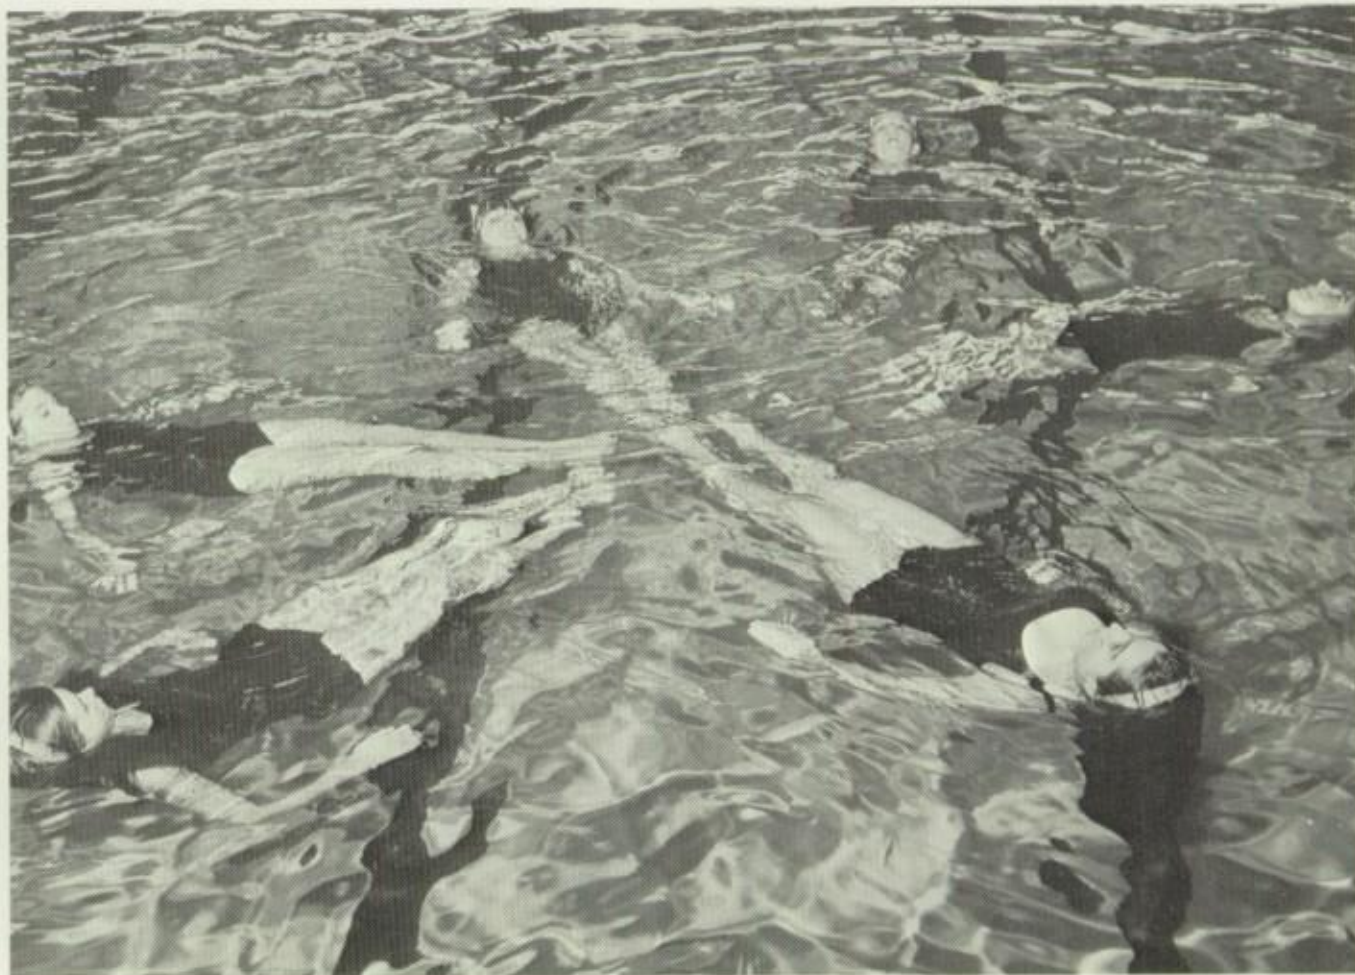

Kathy Pontius and Martha Savage admire Janet Tagon's ability and graceful form on the parallel bars.

Vaulting over the buck horse, Gail Armstrong takes part in one of the many activities, assisted by two spotters.

With the help of a smile and a whistle, Mrs. Rita Kay Webster gets the class' attention during a busy physical education class.

With a goal of perfect symmetry, girls in water ballet strive to achieve this with continuous practice.

Enjoyment

Enjoyment could be one way to describe physical education. Through this enjoyment students achieved physical fitness. Exercise, sports, and games made up most of the year.

Students usually enjoy the twelve weeks they spend in the pool. Classes in Red Cross Beginners, Intermediate, Swimmer and Junior Lifesaving were offered. In them, the swimmers perfected their swimming strokes and learned other water skills.

Various games and activities were participated in by physical education students. Among them were volleyball, soccer, tennis, basketball and other such sports. Races and relays, tumbling and apparatus were also enjoyed.

The trampolines, always a favorite of both boys and girls, was one of the many extras also offered this year.

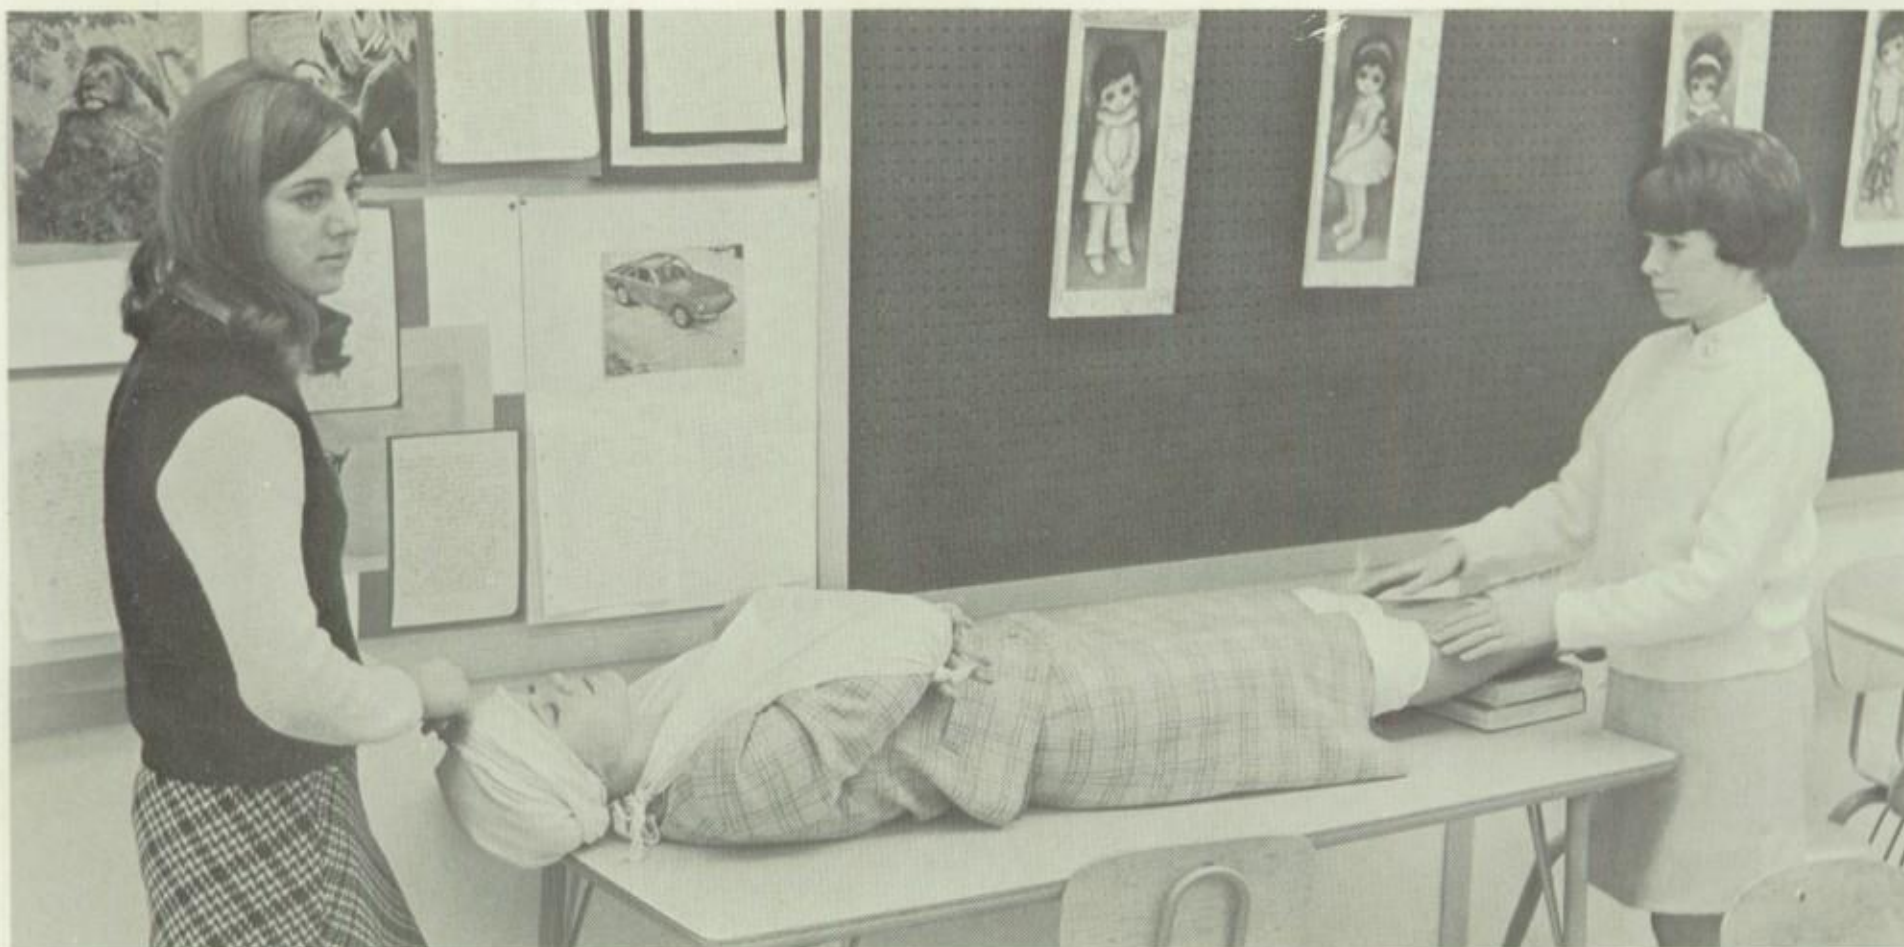

Two new events added to the girls' physical education department were archery and golf. A girls' golf team was also begun. Through this enjoyment of sports and games, boys and girls developed into young men and women.

The Olympic size pool is used continually to teach the fundamentals of swimming and lifesaving.

Nearing the ceiling, freshmen Tom Morris and Rick Wilson strive to keep themselves physically fit.

Safety classes spend many hours familiarizing themselves with the fundamentals of bandaging. Sophomores Peggy

Johnson and Brenda Smith practice by using Lisa Haartje as a victim.

Better Safety Habits Taught Through

Karen Lowe gives an oral report to her classmates as Miss Anne Gates, I.U. student teacher, listens.

Lynn Hougland and Karen Soucie practice the techniques of one of the forms of artificial respiration they learned.

Learning about the human body—its different organs, muscles, and diseases—was the main goal of the health classes. In this course students studied the general structure of the body and its functions, which is highly important during this vital time of a teen-ager's life. There were many valuable speakers available to lecture to these classes, and from these people, pupils heard first hand reports of different social, as well as physical, experiences.

Accompanying health was the safety and drivers' education courses. In safety, students studied first-aid methods and actually had a chance to practice them. Through many valuable movies, classmates learned the importance of knowing first-aid.

During the excellently planned driver's education course, students acquired the skill of driving. With the instructor, who had dual controls, the students learned to drive offensively as well as defensively. Driver's education was offered during a regularly scheduled study hall and during the summer to all eligible students.

Trying to remember all the instructions for safe driving, sophomore John Jester keeps his eye on the road.

Typical drivers' education students spend hours practicing in various types of traffic before driving dual controls.

Mr. Edward Plummer, instructor, enters the car with students Dan Reef, Dianne Dunn, and Karen Cobb, seated.

It Tolls For . . .

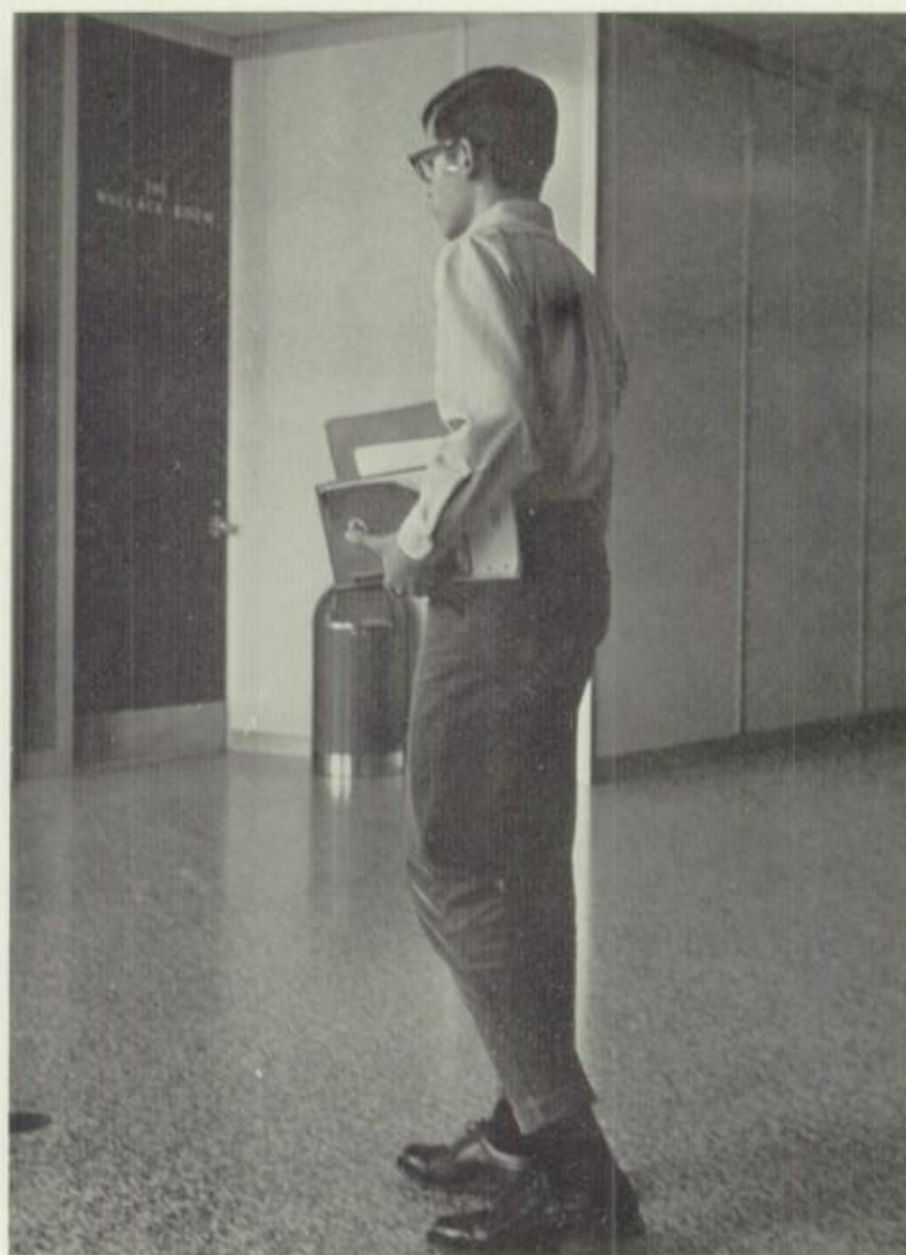

Acquaintances

The echo of LC students is reflected by our bell . . . their laughter and sadness, their successes and failures, the echoes of the past, present, and future.

The connection between our emotions and time is made through acquaintances with others. Through others we learn to understand ourselves better. We build our own character by being a friend. We prepare ourselves for our future lives by learning to get along with others.

Our acquaintances today will be memories tomorrow, impressed in our minds throughout our lives . . . remembrances of our high school years.

Class Officers, Representatives Make

A Senior is much more than one who is completing his high school career. Being older, he must show more maturity and responsibility than underclassmen.

One major responsibility of Seniors was deciding whether to further their education, enter the service, or begin a career. This decision involved College Board tests, interviews with counselors, and applications to various opportunities. In the decision, the Seniors showed much more maturity than they had shown in any previous year.

The annual New Year's Eve Dance was sponsored by the Senior Class. "Ring in '67" was chosen as the theme. An elegant evening was cherished by all who attended the Senior Dinner Dance held in February. During the Christmas Season, class members decorated L.C.'s halls with evergreens. Seniors were well represented in the school plays and convocations, such as the Democrat-Republican debate in which Seniors debated campaign issues.

Senior unity, school spirit, and leadership set an example for the entire school.

Senior class officers, Jim Martz, vice-president; Barb Callinan, secretary; Terry Hall, president; and Ron Preston, treasurer, guided their class through its final year.

Vote for Senior 'Most' Personalities

Lonnie McCloud

Bob Snapp

Lonnie McCloud and Bob Snapp were not only Centralites, but they were members of the "Class of '67." Being active in school sports, both were filled with pride and a feeling of accomplishment at any Lawrence victory. Those fortunate enough to know Lonnie and Bob found lasting friendships. Although we lost them early last summer, we shall never lose the memories they left behind.

determination, and Pat Fagan lead the team onto the floor to capture another victory.

Class Officers, Class Meetings Unite

Elected to lead the Junior class were Mike Musa, treasurer; Tad Drew, vice-president; Steve Arnold, president and Jackie Flynn, secretary.

A feeling of security and confidence developed in Juniors. However, with this feeling of security came more work and added responsibility.

Those preparing for higher education became more grade conscious. The PSAT tests gave insight into those final entrance exams.

Class officers and class meetings became a part of school life and helped unite the Juniors into a working unit. The huge responsibility of the Prom belonged to this class. They arranged the entertainment, decorations, publicity, and budget.

Class rings were purchased by Juniors as a permanent reminder of high school life. As many students received drivers licenses, car keys became a symbol of their developing responsibility. All aspects of Junior life formed a part of their futures.

As their last year of high school loomed before them, the Juniors realized that soon the responsibility of school participation and leadership would be theirs.

Sophomores Attempt, Reach Many

Our Lawrence Central bell rang in a new and full year for the class of sixty-nine. No longer freshmen, they had gained the maturity that a year brings. With this added maturity, they had gained the respect of not only fellow students, but faculty as well. To the Class of Seventy, they were respected. The goals that the Sophomores set were the goals the Freshmen strived to reach.

Sophomores became active in competitive sports. Important members of the team, they will be the varsity teams of tomorrow.

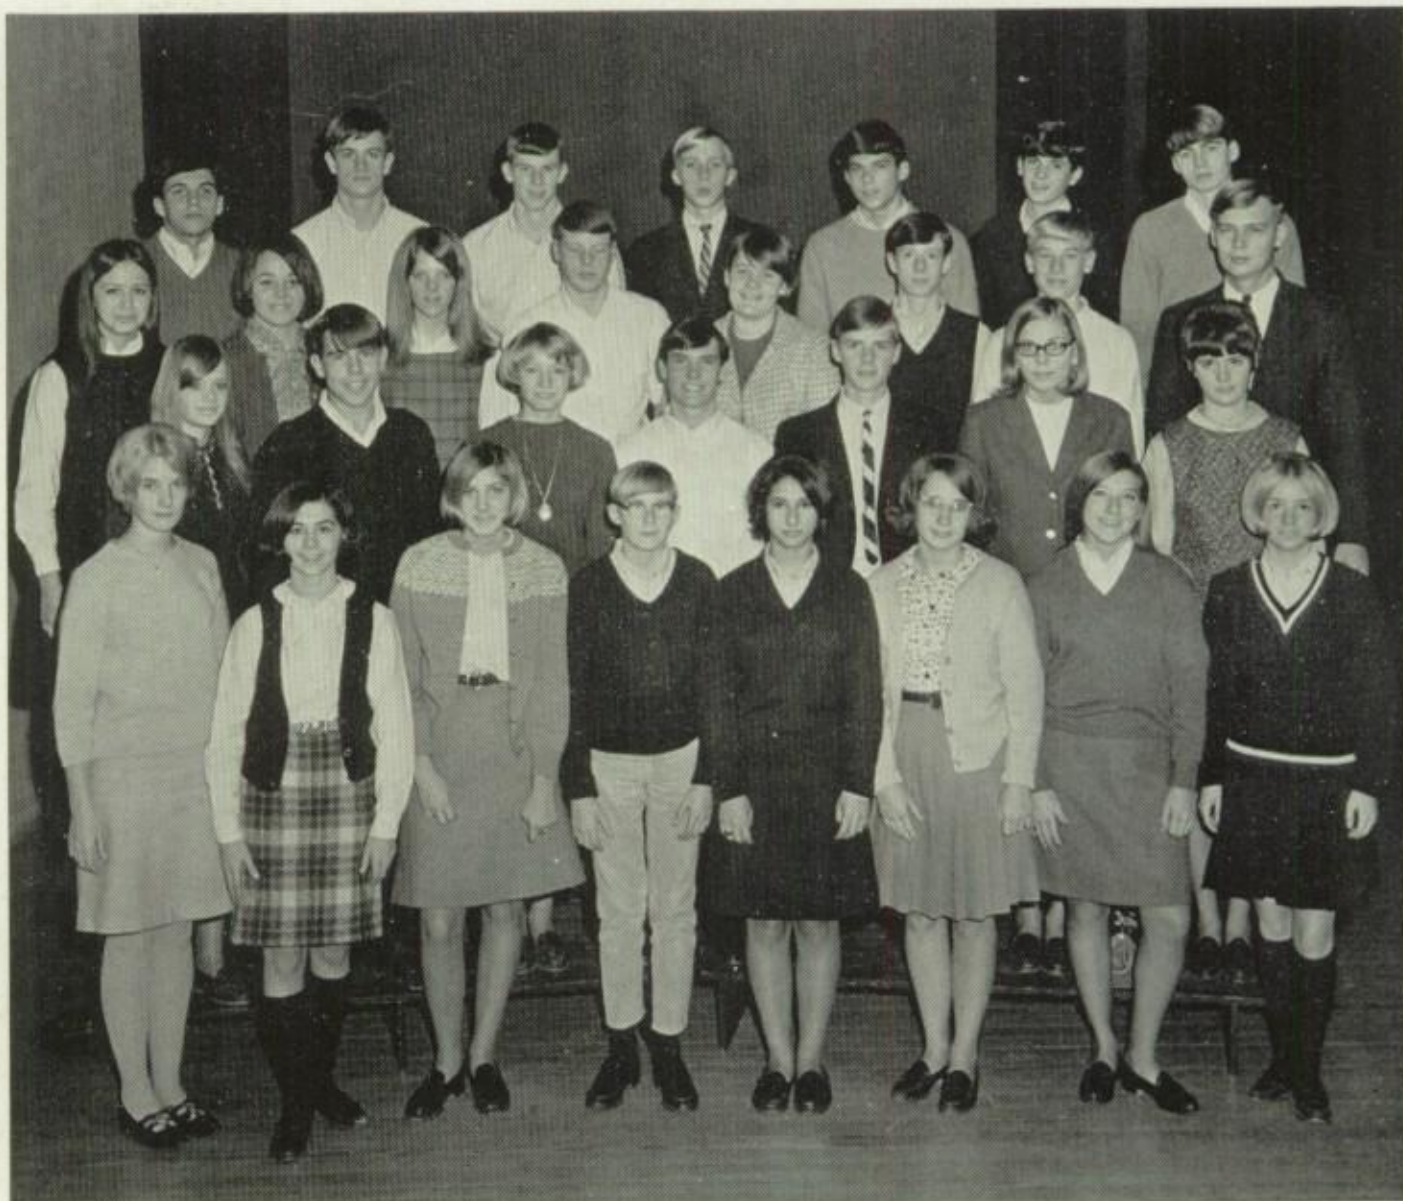

Election of junior class officers was one of the most exciting events of the sophomore year. The halls were covered with posters as the sophomores worked diligently for the candidates of their choice. Their decision determined their future leaders and will affect the success of their junior year.

Craig Sewell poses amid the bustle of lights as he waits for the photographer to snap the shutter.

Bells Ring Out Achievement and

Lynn Barker shows her spirit during try-outs for Frosh cheerleaders — an event that interests many.

A new way of life has begun for freshmen. Confusion reigned as these bewildered faces wandered the halls in those first days of high school.

The class of seventy faced the challenges and prepared themselves to achieve success. These newcomers are the last freshmen at L.C.

Responsibilities were thrust upon somewhat unwanting shoulders. The frosh found they were on their own as future goals focused into a clearer picture in which maturity, ideals and duties loomed larger.

Freshmen sports played an important role in synchronizing the class. They joined clubs and made many new friends.

The tolling of the bell will ring in many new experiences as the frosh become sophomores next year. But somehow they'll never forget this first year of trials and tribulations; a year in which they faced the many challenges and decisions of freshman life, as well as becoming the last freshman class for the student body at Lawrence Central High School.

Athletics

Athletics played an important role in our school life this year. Boys who excel in athletics were provided an opportunity to compete in inter-school sports. Interested boys participated in nine sports—football, cross country, basketball, wrestling, swimming, track, baseball, golf, and tennis. About 300 boys took physical examinations qualifying them to compete in these sports.

Centralites can well be proud of the accomplishments of the varsity, reserve and freshman teams. Participants, wearing their uniforms with pride, combined skill and determination with teamwork to ring in many Lawrence victories.

Varsity Gridders Use New Plays

The team watches as Coaches Scott Chandler and Ron Bell explain the plays for the second half.

With the cancellation of their last game because of snow, the Lawrence Central Bears ended the season with a 3-6 record.

Coach Scott Chandler changed to the T-formation or the "pro offense" this year. LC had previously used the single-wing offense.

The Bears had several bright moments during the season. For the first time in five years, they won the coveted Railroad Lantern from Warren Central by using a 12-yard tackle-eligible pass from quarterback Jim Teter to Terry Hall. In the Speedway game, Teter threw a pass which was deflected by an opponent and then caught the ball himself for a gain of 48 yards.

Twenty boys received letters this year. LC was also honored by having seniors Jim Teter and Scott McLean make the all-county team as quarterback and guard, respectively.

Assisting Coach Scott Chandler were Line Coach Dwaine Bell, Assistants Ron Bell and Leland Dilk, and Trainer Jon Padfield.

Offensive statistics show the team carried the ball 353 times for a total of 1329 yards. Senior Don Dugan had 21 carries for 209 yards in the Arlington game for a season high.

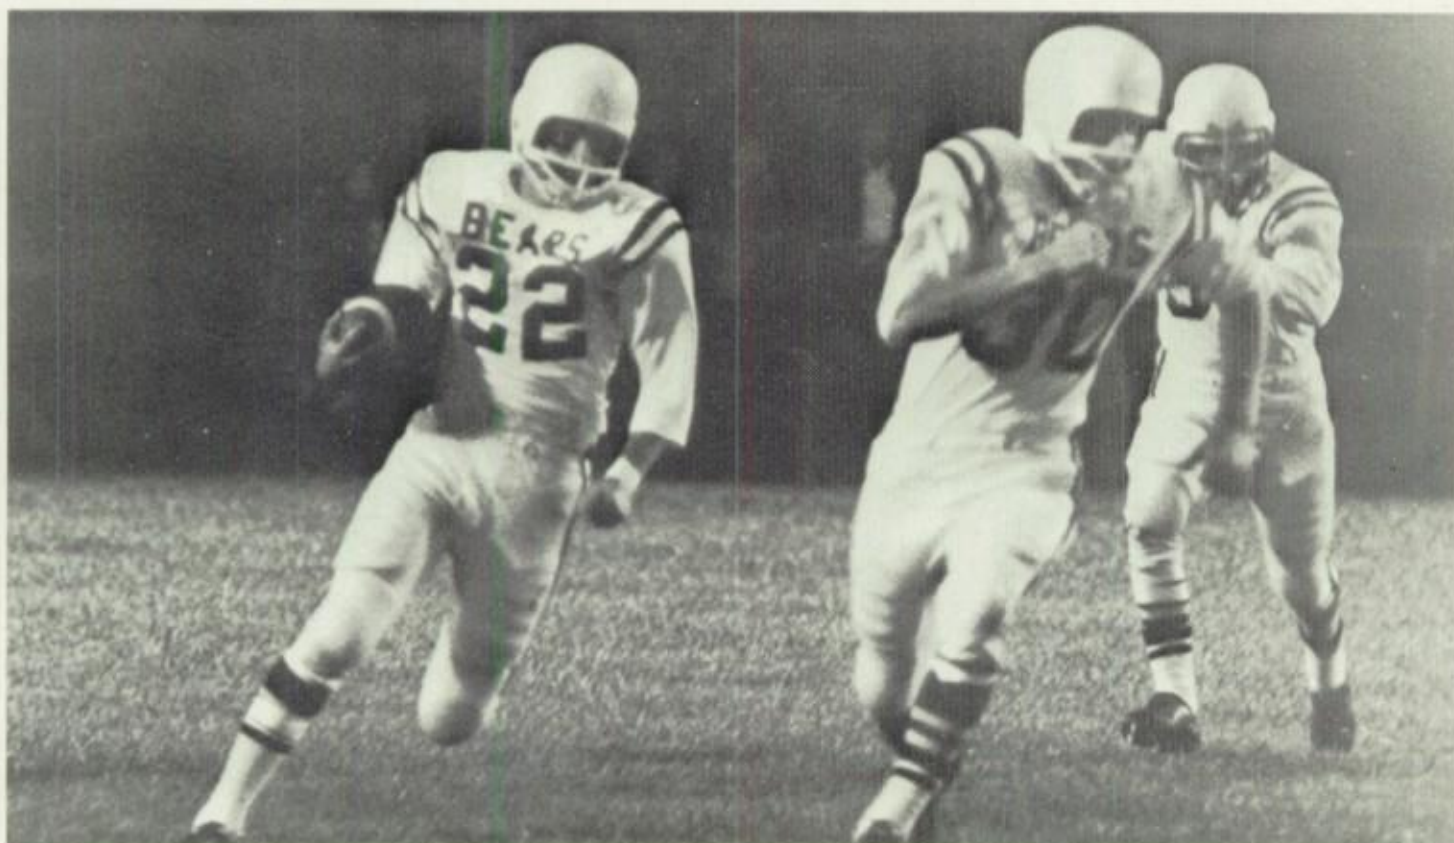

The Bears completed 71 of 135 passes for 1192 yards, an average of 16.8. Seven pass touchdowns were scored, and ten passes were intercepted by the opposition. Quarterback Jim Teter connected on 59 of 104 pass attempts for a 57 per cent average. His passing netted the Bears 972 yards for the season.

Defensively, the team made 458 tackles, eight pass interceptions, and broke up 23 pass attempts. Senior guard Scott McLean led the Bears and the county with 103 tackles.

Reserves End with Winning Season,

Putting forth extra effort, Dave Funcannon stretches for the ball to insure added yardage.

LC's reserve football team ended its season with a 5-2 record. North Central and Warren Central handed the reserves their losses.

Fred Seitz made the longest run of the season—a 90 yard touchdown sweep. Bill Hall had the longest pass with a 50-yard scoring bomb.

The freshman team, coached by Mr. Harry Inskeep and Mr. Ed McCauley, finished its season with a 2-5 record.

Coach Inskeep said the boys exhibited good attitude and spirit, and although the freshman team was plagued with injuries throughout the season, the boys worked exceptionally hard at all times.

Rick Herd dedicated hours of practice to clinch his victories for L.C. in cross country meets.

The varsity cross country team started practicing for the grueling two-mile runs this fall with high hopes; but they finished the season with a 4-14 record. Rick Herd led the harriers in most of the meets throughout the season with his brother, Alan, finishing second. Rick finished 3rd in the sectionals, 5th in the regionals, and went to the state finals.

Displaying the style which gained him an undefeated season, Steve Startzman prepares to take down his opponent.

Members of the varsity wrestling team anxiously watch one of their teammates try to outwit his opponent.

Startzman Wins State at 103 lbs.

LC's wrestlers started practice last November to prepare themselves for later meets.

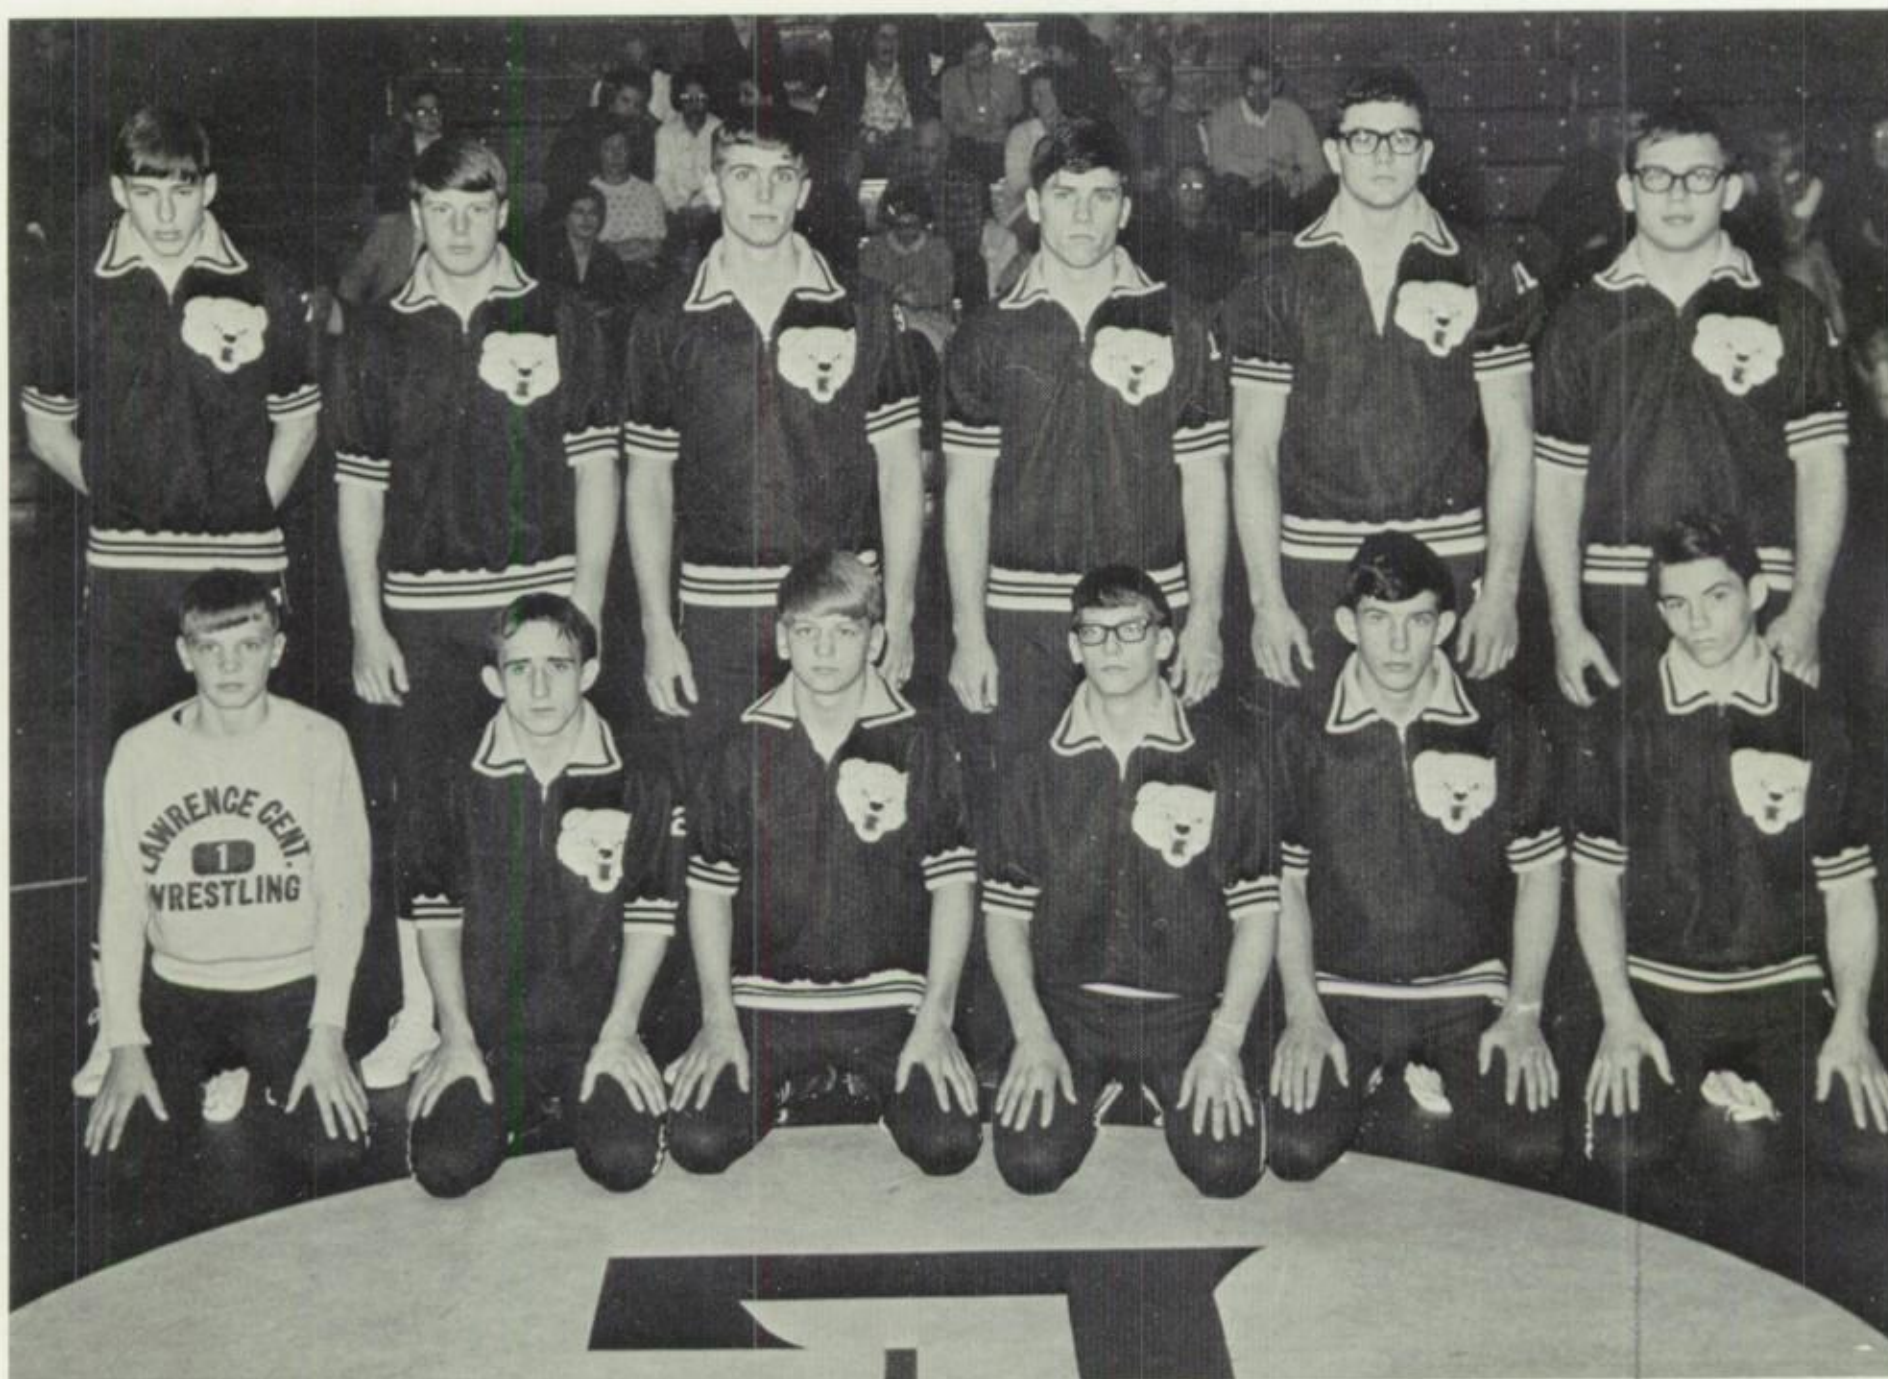

Varsity team members, Bill Berger, Terry Ransdell, and Steve Startzman captured Marion County championships in their respective weight divisions. Later in the year, Steve Startzman, senior, became the first state wrestling champ in the history of Lawrence Central. The varsity wrestlers finished the season with a record of 5-7-1 for dual meets.

Reserve wrestlers, while working their way to future varsity spots, concluded their meets with a record of 7-6.

The freshman team grappled their way to place 7th of 16 teams in the County tournament and finally ended with a 4-5 record. Dave Funnannon and Jim Hawley, freshmen, remained undefeated throughout the season.

Craig Sewell sets a new school record in the 100-yard butterfly with 54.8 seconds in the meet with Bloomington.

Lawrence Central tankmen and an opponent start into the backstroke during dual meet competition.

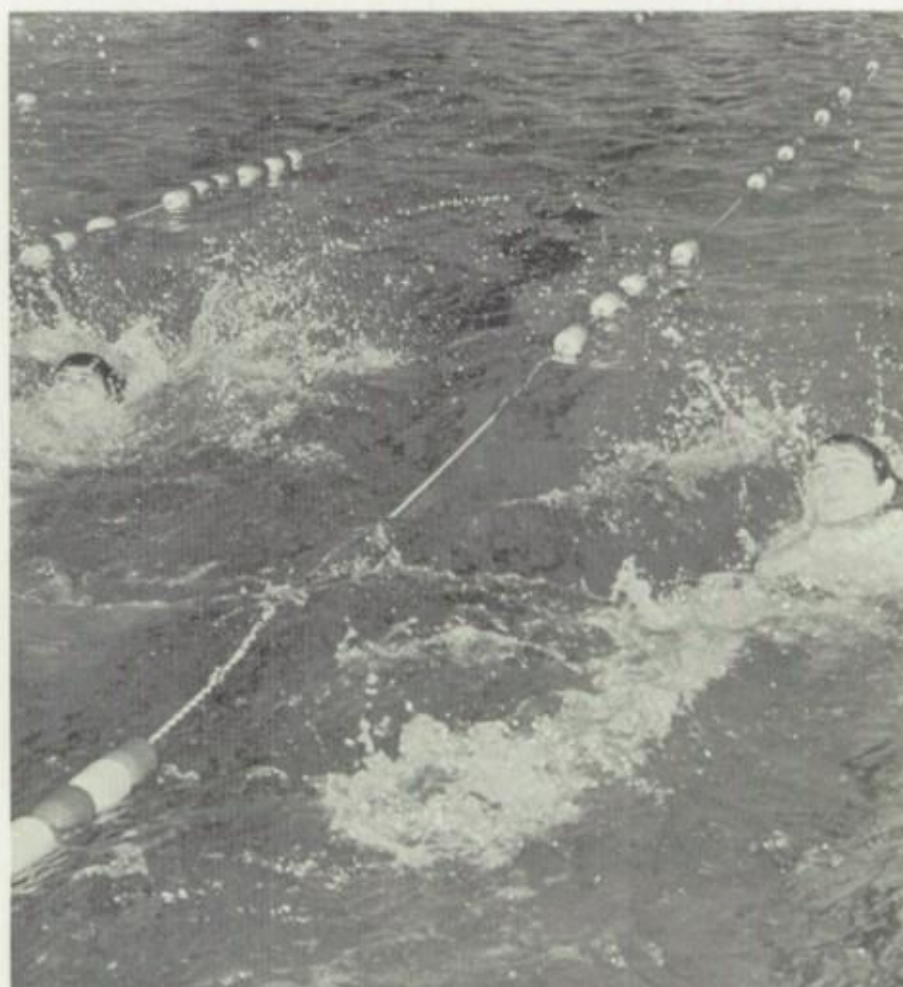

Their Way to Victorious Season

LC swimmers finished their dual meet schedule with a record of 12-1. Their only loss of the season was to Columbus which later won the Columbus Sectionals.

At the Columbus Relays in December, the 200-yard relay team, Chuck Johnson, Chris Norman, Craig Sewell, and Bill Knipe, brought home a trophy for placing first in that event. The swim team also received two 3rd places, one 4th place, and three 5th places. Lawrence placed 1st of the eight competing teams and won the first swim team trophy to be housed in the trophy case.

The Sectionals brought honor to LC when the team placed third of 12 teams. Eight boys were qualified for the state meet.

In the State meet, Chuck Johnson placed first in the 100-yard backstroke with a time of 55.4 seconds. Craig Sewell received a 3rd place rating in the 100-yard butterfly at 55.6. The 200-yard freestyle team, composed of Paul Humbles, Dave Young, Bill Knipe, and Greg Cotton placed sixth. Mark Catt, LC's diver, placed sixth with a total of 293.70 points.

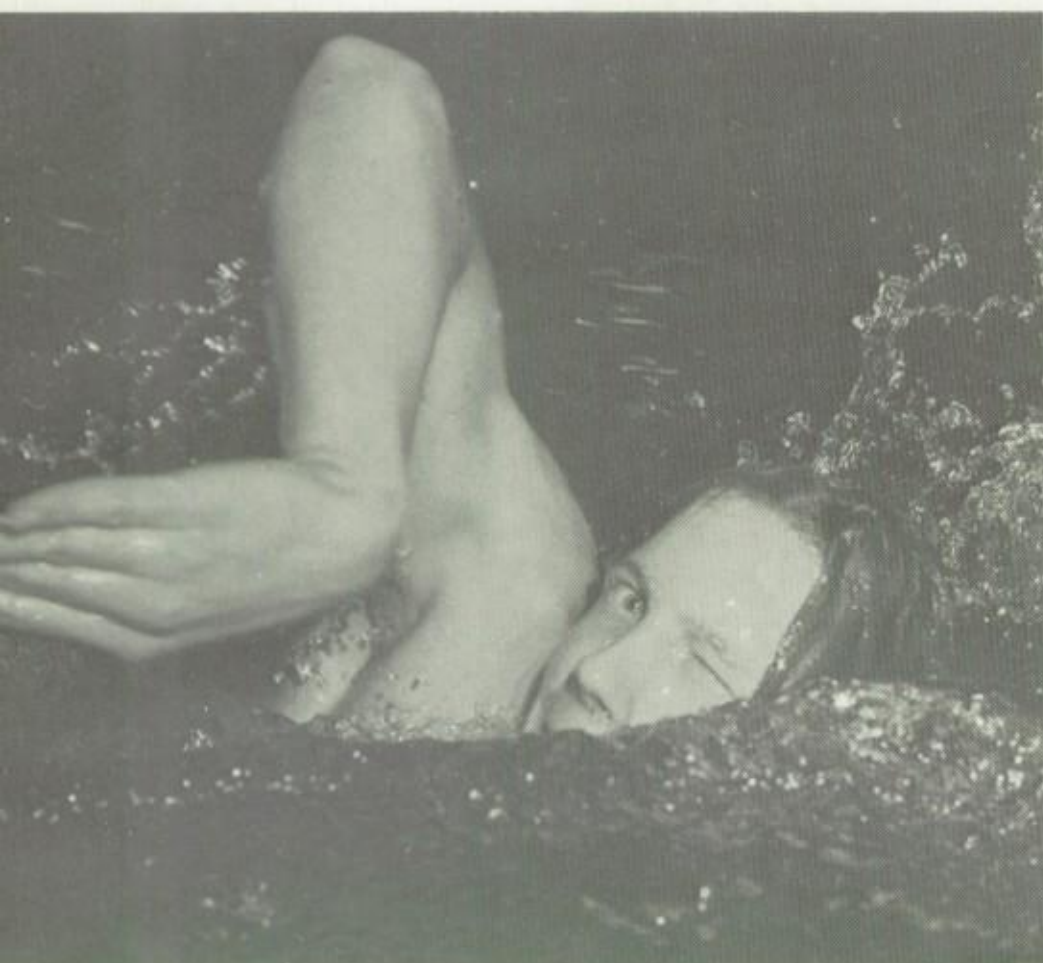

Practice helps swimmers Terry Borneman and Mike Dennin to obtain speed and victories for Lawrence.

Varsity Earns Mythical County Title

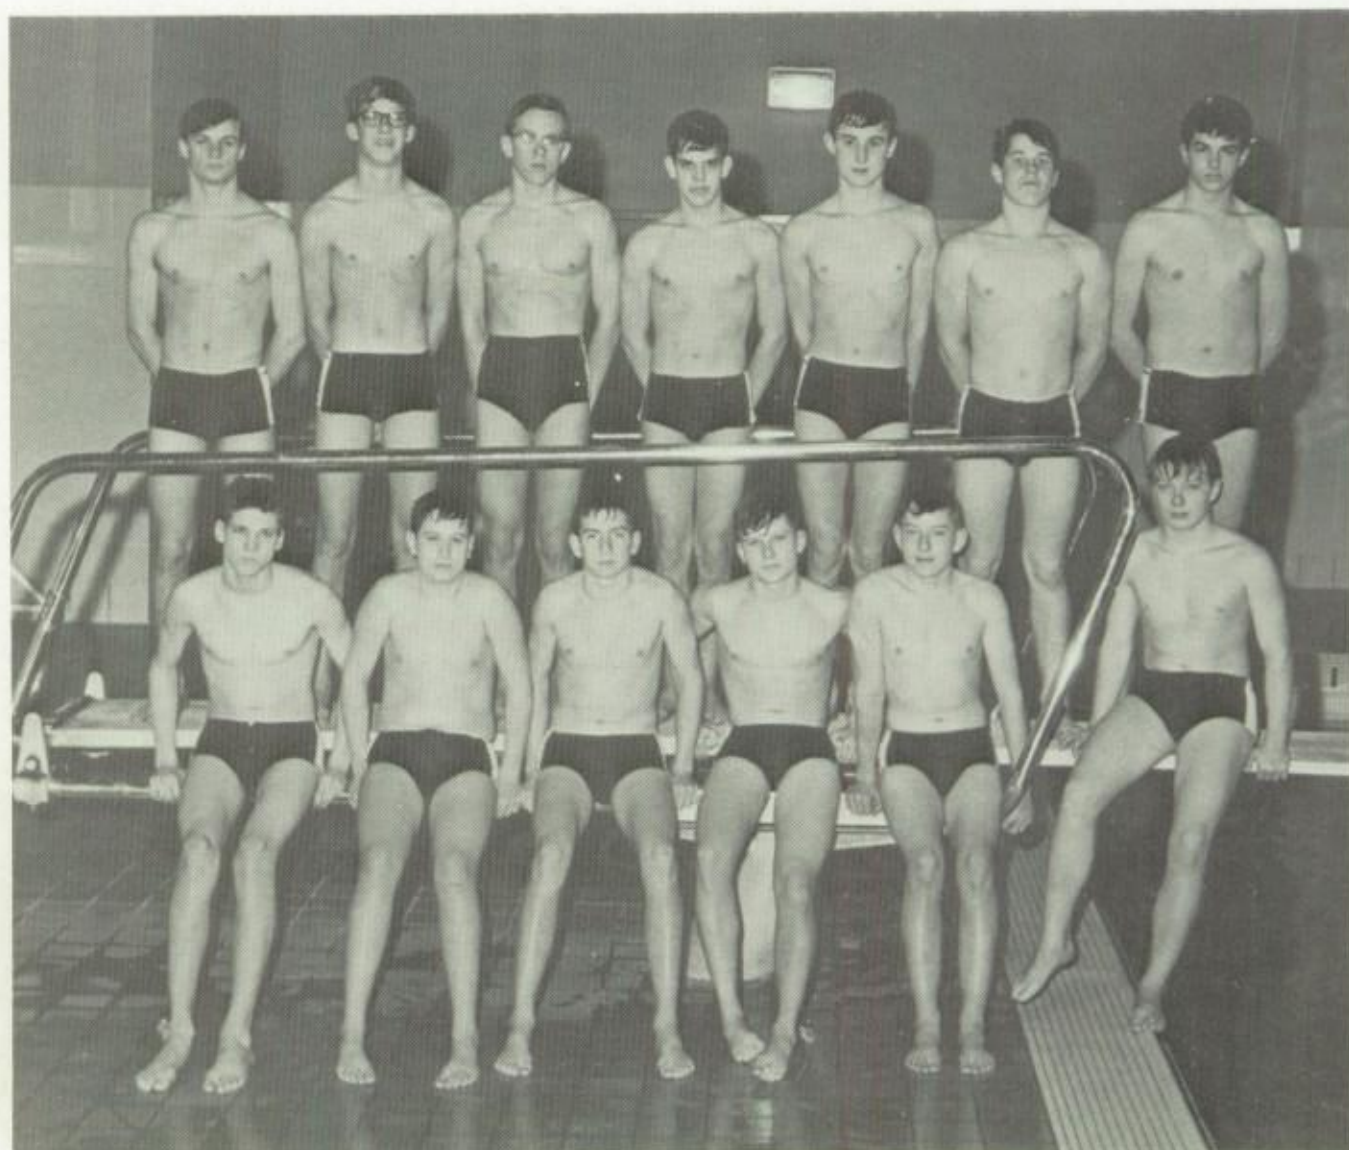

Pool records were set by LC tankmen this year in the 200-yard medley relay. Chuck Johnson, Chris Norman, Craig Sewell and Bill Knipe swam this in a time of 1:48.4. Craig Sewell holds the record for the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 55.1. Chuck Johnson splashed through the water to seize the new pool record of 58.8 in the 100-yard backstroke. The 400-yard freestyle relay team now holds the pool record of 3:34.4.

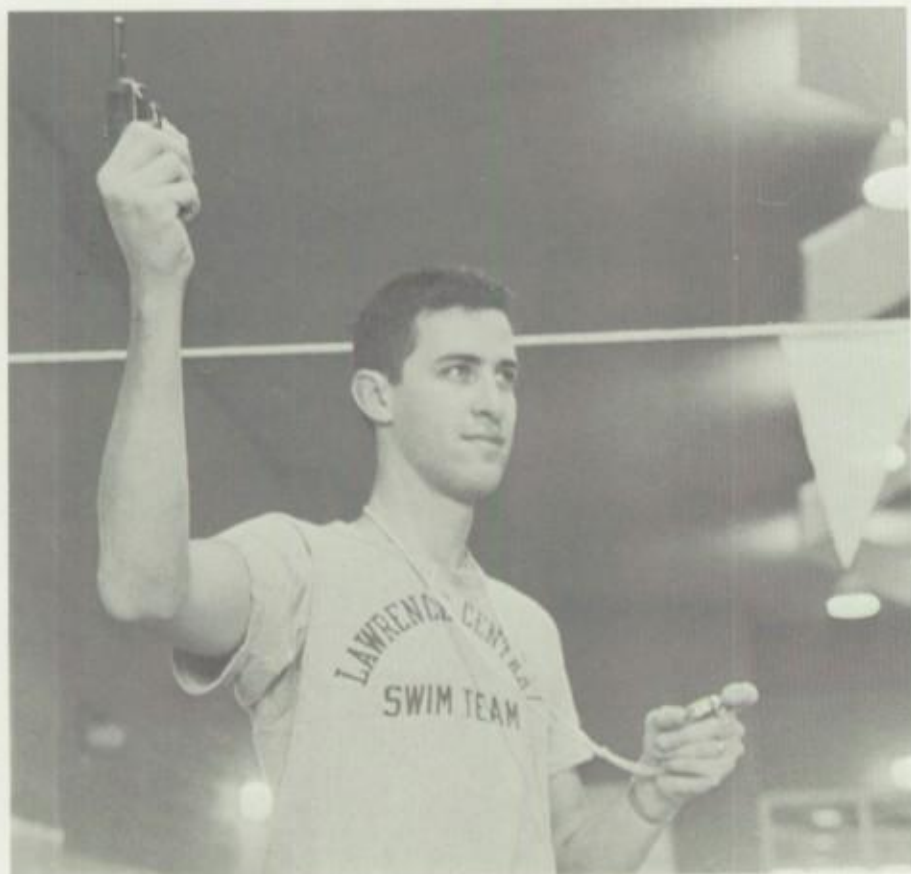

Along with the pool records, several school records were bettered this year. The 200-yard medley relay team swam the event in 1:45.3. Chuck Johnson holds four individual records. They are the 200-yard freestyle, 1:57.3; the 50-yard freestyle, 23.4; the 100-yard backstroke, 57.3; and the 400-yard freestyle, 4:25.4. Another duo-recordholder is Craig Sewell in the 100-yard butterfly, at 54.8 and the 100-yard freestyle, at 52.4. Mark Catt holds the school diving record with 218.95 points. The 400-yard freestyle relay team of Paul Humbles, Dave Young, Bill Knipe, and Greg Cotton achieved a time of 3:38.3.

Winking away the splashing water, Greg Cotton puts forth his final effort in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Varsity Singes

The Bears gained 1,719 points for the season in comparison to their opponents 1,463. The highlight of the varsity season came when the team compiled 284 points in three consecutive games averaging 92 points per game. This high-scoring fling raised the points per game average to 71.6%. In the Carmel game, the Bears scored 97 points for a season high and beat the Greyhounds for the first time in ten years.

Individually, Don Dugan was high team scorer with 374 points. Phil Harman led the Bears in free throw scoring, hitting 58 of 75 for a 77.3% average. Pat Fagan totaled 219 rebounds to add to the team total of 835 compared to 672 rebounds for the opposition.

Don Dugan and Randy Leary were placed on the All-County and All-Sectional teams as guards for the second straight year. Pat Fagan was chosen All-County center, and John Meadows made the All-Sectional team as a forward. All four boys were seniors and returning lettermen this year.

Nets for Best Record in 18 Years

Improving over last year's record, the Bears finished their season with a 16 and 8 record. In the eight losses, the varsity was downed by only 34 points.

The Bears won the County Dope Box for the first time in 15 years by beating Warren Central, 71-54. The box was taken away, however, as Ben Davis downed Lawrence by a score of 66-59.

Speed and accuracy proved to be determining factors as LC edged North Central, 53-52, in the first game of the county tourney and conquered Speedway, 72-62, in the second. Ben Davis beat the Bears in the final game, 76-73.

Shouts, sore throats, tears, and over 1,000 fans accompanied the team to the Sectionals. LC defeated Northwest, 97-63, in the first game; trounced Scecina, 86-63, but then lost in the finals to Shortridge, 59-53. The final game will be one which Coach Woodie Crum is not likely to forget. The Bears went ahead, 53-52, and Coach Crum jumped up, came down on his knee, and fractured his leg with 43 seconds left.

Freshman Athletes Plan for Future

Keith Hogard attempts a field goal, while Jeff Nickerson and Harold Dallas guard their Beech Grove opponents.

The Freshman basketball team squeaked through the season with a record of 2-13. The Reserves fared a little better with a record of 9 wins and 11 losses.

Despite the poor Freshman record, the team had two outstanding players. Jeff Nickerson and Bill Thompson led the Frosh in scoring. Nickerson scored a total of 151 points and Thompson hit for a total of 141 points in 15 games. The last season for the freshman Bears at LC proved fatal but Coach Clark Crafton is hopeful of their improvement next year as Reserves.

Coach Allen Smith described his Reserves as having much natural talent. He remarked that by the end of the season the boys who warmed the bench all year were realizing their capabilities. Mr. Smith encouraged hustle and enthusiasm in his boys. He feels that better ability will come through experience and age.

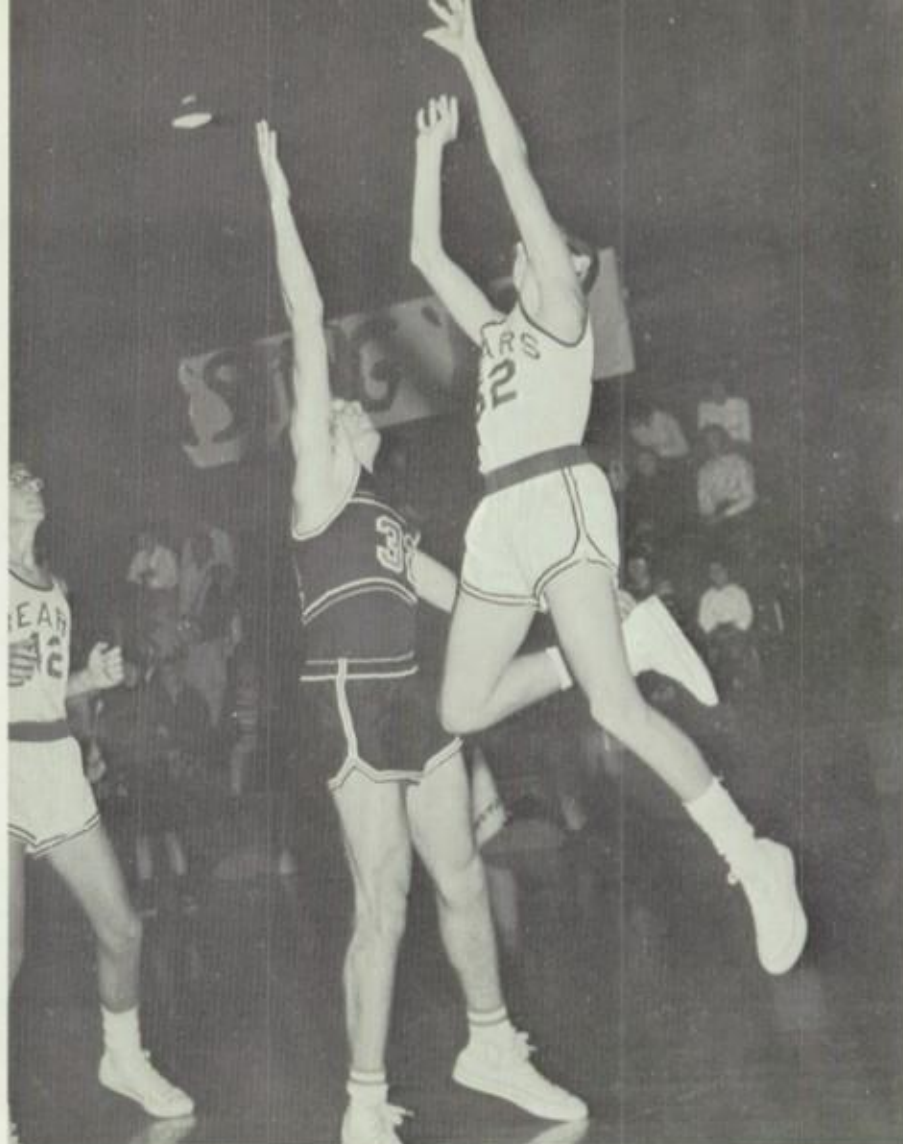

Practice and hard work plus maturity will insure a more successful season next year for these boys, said the coach.

Girls' Recreation Association members spent many afternoon hours from September to June at various sports. Lei-

Girls' Recreation Association enables all girls at Lawrence to participate in intramural sports. The teams in the club take part in tournaments of their choice, choosing from kickball, volleyball, basketball, badminton, and softball. After each tournament was played, points were given to the teams that placed. At the end of the year, the team with most points received the All Sports Award. GRA gave girls the opportunity to develop and use athletic ability. It also taught the value of sportsmanship and leadership.

Intramural basketball, bowling, and swimming provided LC students with a popular form of recreation. On Saturday mornings, Centralites competed for their league's trophy. During the week, basketball and swimming gave boys the chance to enjoy these sports without the pressures of varsity playing.

Mr. Ed McCauley served as director of intramurals with Miss Sandra Cheney and Mrs. Rita Kay Webster as GRA sponsors. These advisers worked long hours with students to make the programs both rewarding and enjoyable.

Activities

As the bell sounded to start home-room, 44 organizations prepared to have their monthly or an emergency meeting. At these meetings, members discussed the activities and duties of the clubs. Other meetings held after school served as work sessions for many club-sponsored activities.

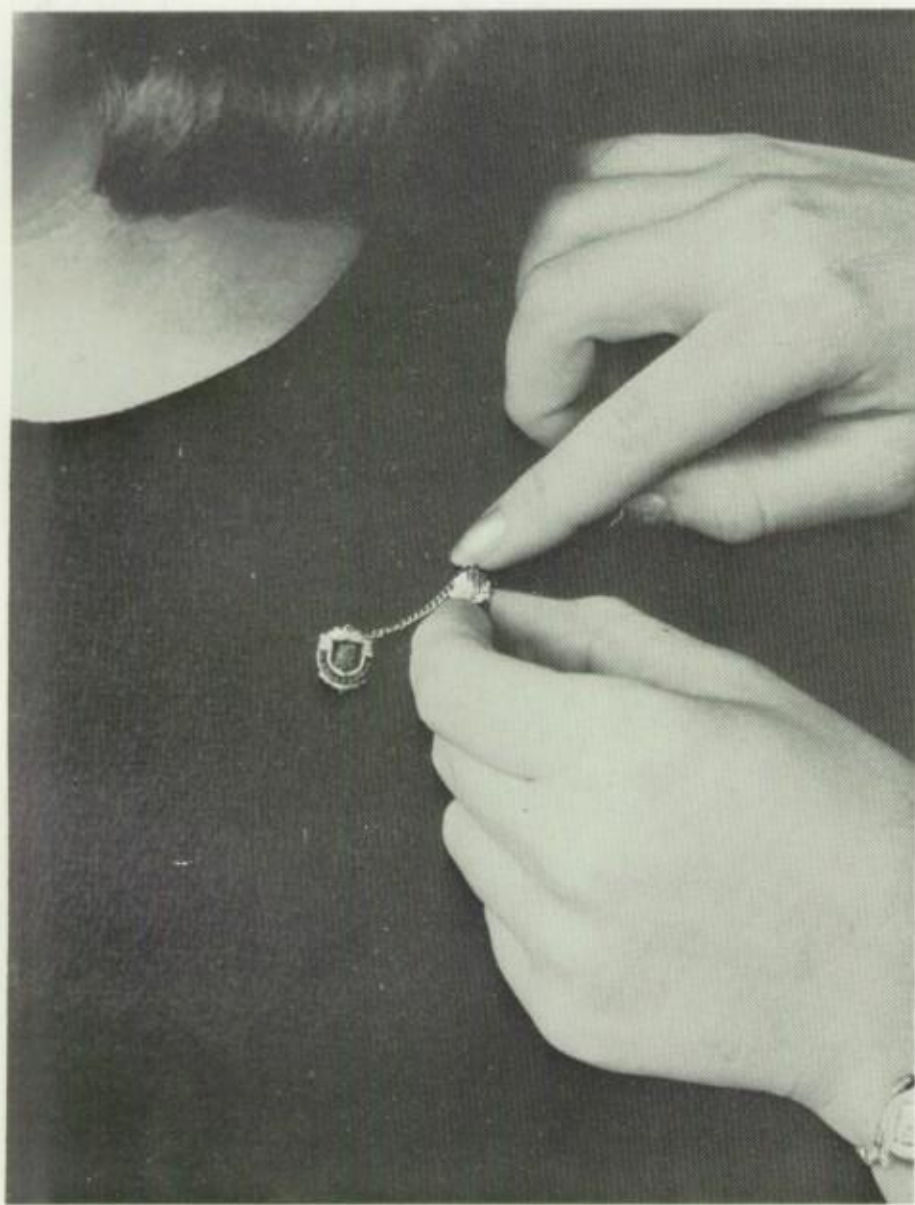

The clubs and organizations of LC contribute greatly to the social life of the students, and they perform many activities in the name of the school. Many clubs took part in Christmas activities to help the needy.

These extra-curricular activities helped develop character and responsibility in each active member.

Many Centralites purchase club pins to symbolize membership in extra-curricular language clubs at Lawrence.

Language Clubs

Through German Club, students were able to use the language learned in class and see slides or movies of the native country.

The Spanish Club's purpose was to further its members' enjoyment of the language and their knowledge of Spanish speaking countries.

The year started off at a terrific pace, for French Club, with the initiation of pledges. As members of a busy club, these pledges participated in a Christmas party, a project, and the Faculty Tea, one of the highlights of the year.

A Roman banquet and Christmas party were presented by the Latin Club for both old and new members. The club helps further the study of the ancient language.

Marianne Henriksson, LC's American Field Service student, addresses the Social Studies Club during homeroom period.

Discussing world problems is one of the many activities the Social Studies Club covers in its program. Guest speakers and debates between members broadened their understanding. A convocation was sponsored by the club in which prospective Republicans and Democrats battled out hot issues in debate.

To further an interest in sciences is the purpose of the Science Club. The club purchased a display case for science information. Interesting programs were presented by speakers concerning many different fields of science.

Drama Club gave its members insight to the dramatic arts. Numerous activities were sponsored by the Drama Club. Guest speakers and special programs were given at monthly meetings. Added to their many activities this year, for the first time, an Evening of One Act Plays was produced by the club.

The Math Club at LC is a selective group of students with a primary interest in Mathematics. Speakers were invited to the club during homeroom meetings. For students with an active interest in advanced math, the Math Club presented an interesting program concerning phases and careers in the field of mathematics.

The Hi Y Club was an organization of boys, juniors and seniors, affiliated with the YMCA. The major project the Hi Y participated in was "Clothe a Child," paid for through donations of the members. Another activity participated in was the Model UN.

The theme of this year's Alpha Tri Hi Y program was "This I Believe." It included all spans of life and therefore interested all types of girls. These Senior Girls undertook many goodwill projects such as their "Feed a Family" project during Thanksgiving.

Beta Tri Hi Y girls participated in varied activities, in which importance was placed upon the development of high values and knowing how to live with others.

The Tri Hi Y-sponsored Cabaret involved many hours of work for the members. These clubs also took much time to help decorate LC for the Christmas season. The Hi Y sponsored Model UN helped members to understand relations between peoples around the world. Much time was spent as all three clubs prepared to serve as representatives at the State House meetings.

The 4-H Junior Leader club performed duties throughout the school and community. They ran the concession stands during home football and basketball games and entered a float in the Homecoming contest. 4-H offered its members training in a variety of fields.

At a Debate Team after school meeting, Bonnie Bird practices a speech, while one of her teammates checks cards.

Novices, sub-varsity, and varsity debaters comprise Lawrence Central's successful debate team. Although the team has only been active for three years, it has gained tremendous knowledge through practice and competition. The goals it has achieved far outnumber its years of experience. The many hours of reading, research, and practice the debaters spend have helped to develop a team of which Lawrence Central is proud.

Lawrence debaters took part in the Indiana High School Forensics Association debate tournament hosted by Ben Davis. Over 50 four-man teams participated and LC representatives placed fifth in the first state meet of the year.

Bridge Club members enjoy a relaxing afternoon of duplicate bridge. This club was formed to give card-playing enthusiasts a chance to synchronize their talents and learn the basics of bridge at the same time.

Competitors Earn Letters, Honors

Members of LC's Debate Team are shown in the library where they spend many hours gathering valuable information.

Helping to boost school spirit, members of the Lettermen's Club and their friends carried these signs to home games.

Throughout the year, interested athletic boys who excelled in varsity sports joined together to form Lawrence Central's Lettermen's Club. Each prospective member was required to go through a challenging initiation designed by the older members.

The members of the Lettermen's Club, along with other school-spirited boys, formed a "rooster" block to help support the Bears and Booster Club at the basketball games.

Club members volunteered to hold the ropes and sweep the floor at the home basketball games during halftime, at the end, and between games. Also, they served as ushers during sectional competition at the Coliseum.

Honoraries Set High LC Standards

Representing excellence in the student body, the forty-three members of the National Honor Society set an example for our school. In the eight years NHS has been a part of LC, it has become the highest rating and acknowledgment for any Centralite. To become members, students must excel in scholarship, leadership, character, and service.

Selected members of the newspaper, news bureau, and yearbook staffs made up LC's Quill & Scroll chapter. To be eligible for membership it was necessary for initiates to have achieved a high grade average in their previous high school years. Various club members attended the Marion County Quill & Press Day, held December 10 at Northwest High School. They will co-host the event next year.

The Student Council served as a link between the administration and the student body. They presented the suggestions and feelings of all Centralites at their monthly meetings.

The Council was in charge of securing a speaker for the "Thought for the Week" presentation. They also made the plans for Homecoming and supervised the March of Dimes and Heart Fund Campaigns.

Clubs Prepare Students for Future

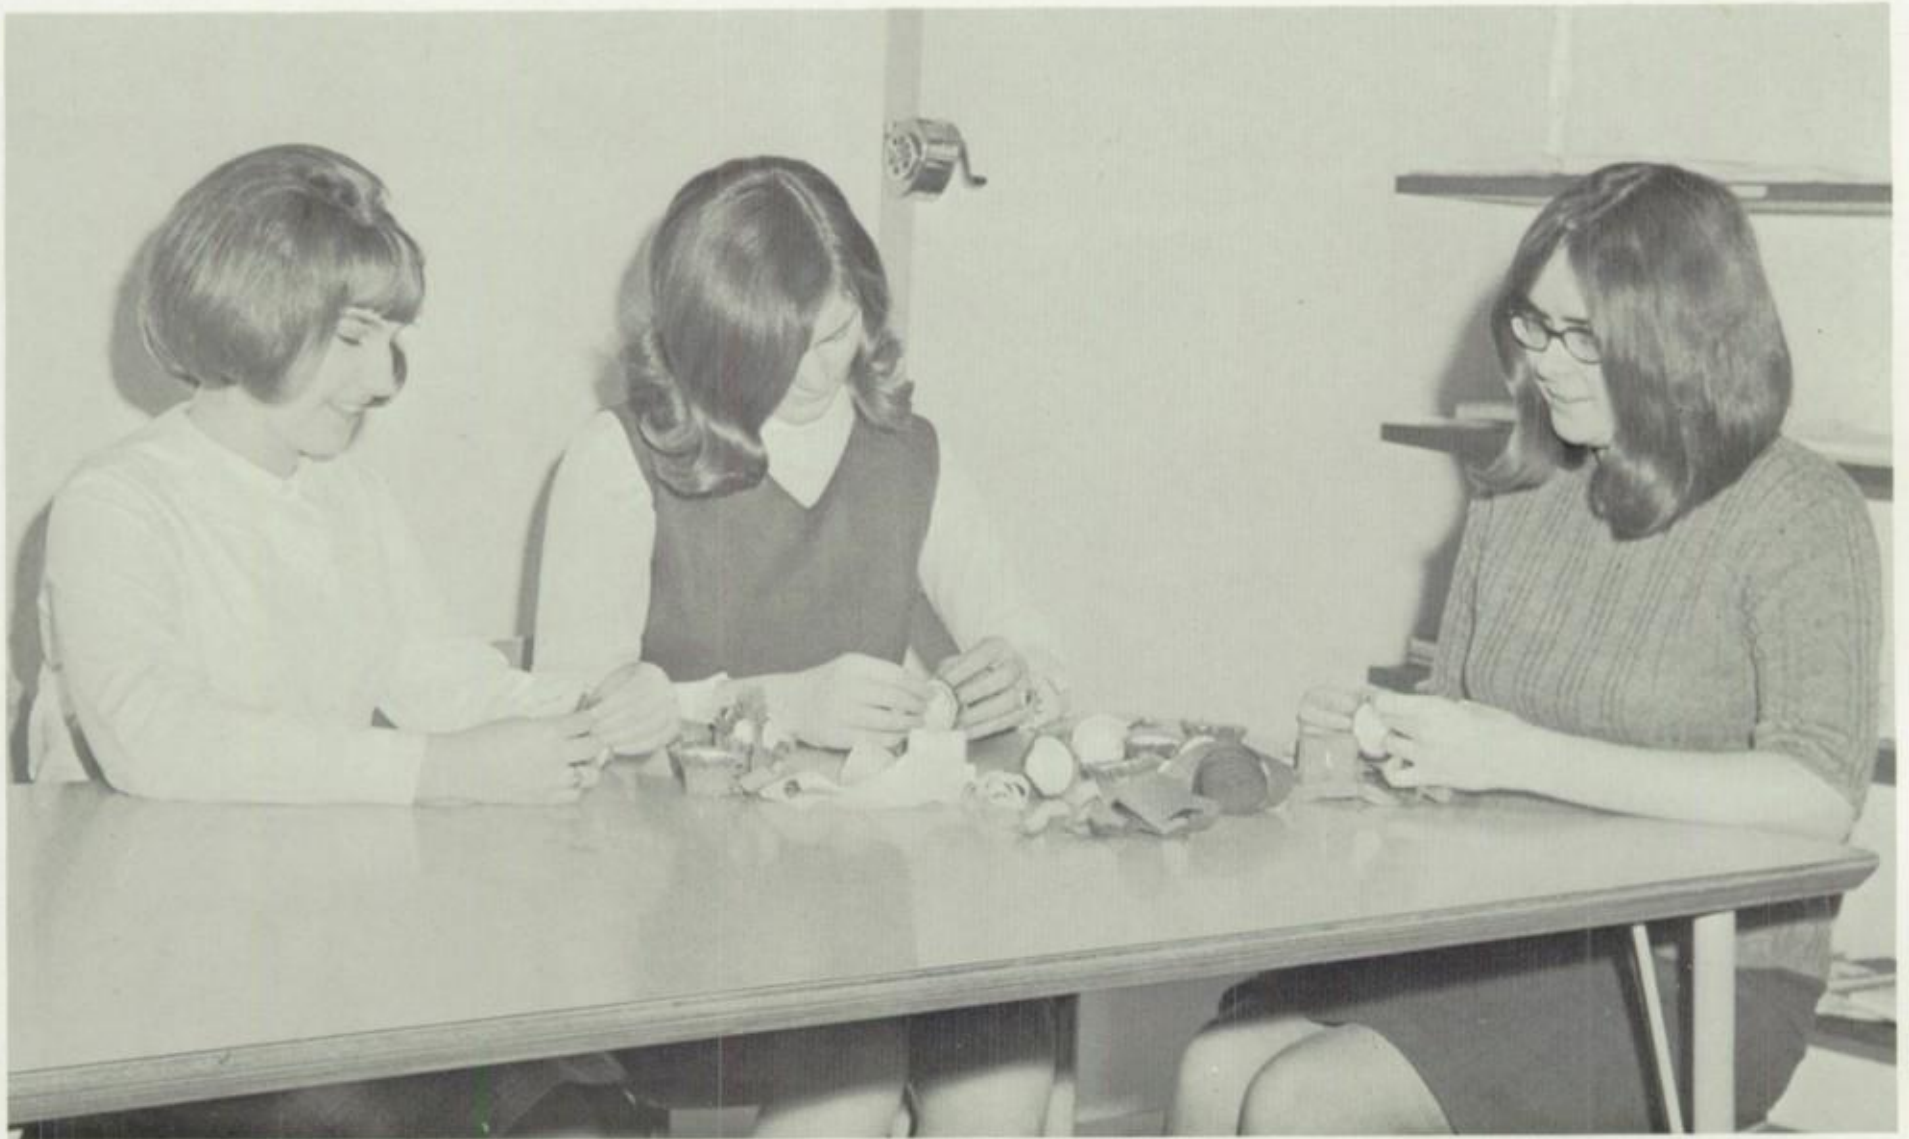

Presenting a panel discussion are Future Nurses Club members Jackie McCool, Donna Fresch, and Carol Jeffers.

Future Teachers Association provided information about the qualifications needed to teach as well as the opportunities in the profession for its members. FTA also sponsored a dance and hosted a banquet for new members.

This year, the Future Nurses Association bought toys for the "Christmas Toy Shop," sponsored by the Mental Health Association, as a Christmas project. As a fund raising project this year the FNA sponsored a dance; they also built a float for Homecoming.

Future Business Leaders of America strived to help its members become skilled and successful business personnel. FBLA sponsored a dance, several guest speakers, and attended the state FBLA convention.

Red Cross Club has served Lawrence Central and the community for more than ten years through many charitable and worthwhile projects. This year the club built and supplied an overseas chest of school and first-aid materials and prepared "party boxes" for area hospitals. Homecoming mums, sold by Red Cross, added beauty to Homecoming events.

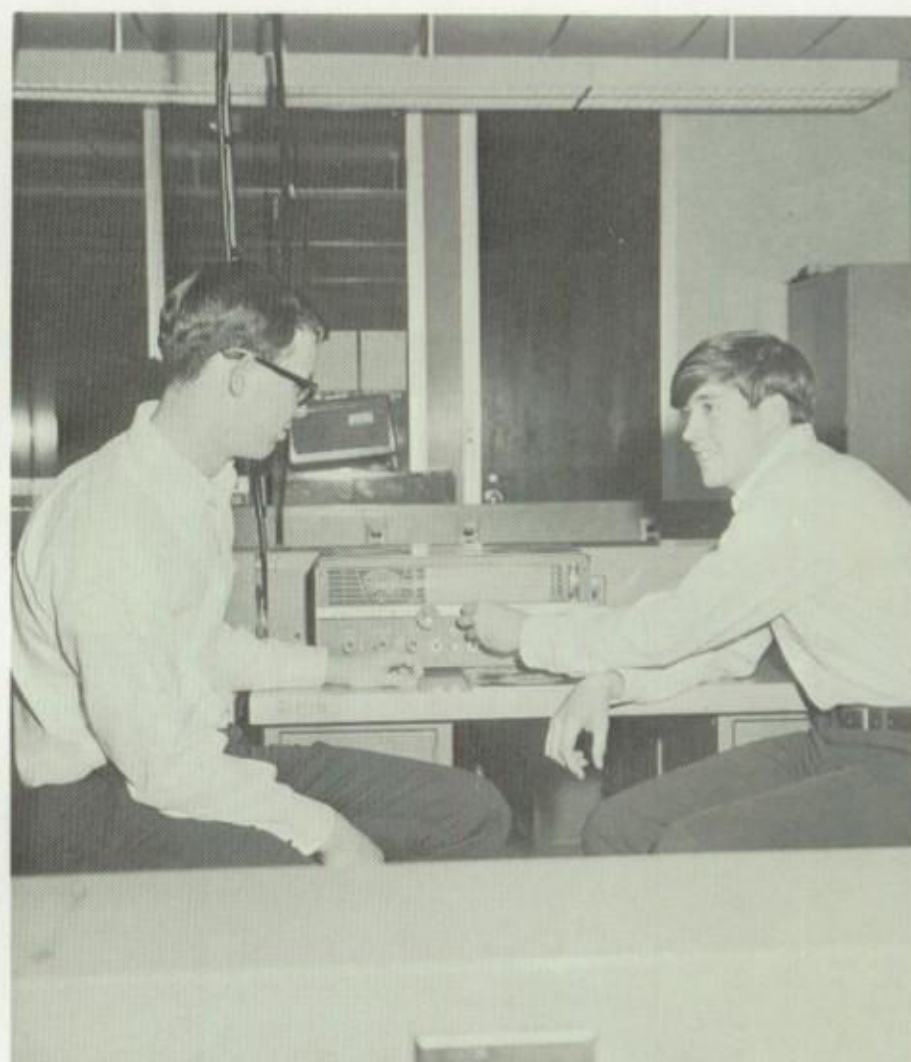

Red Cross members, Sheila Bogle, Nancy Martin, and Cindy Cohee, work on nut cups used in the party boxes to be sent to local hospitals and rest homes at selected times throughout the year.

Student Goals, Hobbies, Interests

Gaining recognition and new members, the Bible Club has become an organization composed of students with determination and enthusiasm. A Thanksgiving dinner for unfortunate children was given by club members. The club went to an "old folk's home" as a Christmas project, and a Christmas program for the club was presented.

Developing and learning skills in radio and electronics is the main purpose of the Amateur Radio Club. To become a member of the club, students have to pass an elementary theory test. With at least this foundation, the member may then improve himself at the practice sessions and meetings.

Rekamemoh Club was organized for girls taking home economics, as a club in which they could discuss new principles for the home and family. It got its name from homemaker spelled backwards, and sponsors an annual picnic.

The American Field Service sponsored several activities throughout the year. The club's busy schedule was highlighted by Marianne Henrikson, our foreign student. The "Horoscope Hop," an after-game dance, represented another activity sponsored by the AFS club.

AFS Club Officers—F. Foster, pres.; C. Robinson, v.-pres.; P. Seifert, secy.; J. Steinway, treas.

Birgit Marianne Henriksson is shown as Santa Lucia with her American sisters Julie and Sandy Steinway. Marianne, LC's little blue-eyed blonde from Sweden, was our AFS student this year.

Marianne was born in Arvjosjaur, Lapland, to Inge and Lisbeth Henriksson. This year she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steinway. She left Sweden on August 8, 1966 to arrive in Cincinnati on August 19th.

For Marianne "this is a wonderful country to be in and this year has given me many experiences and fantastic memories that I will keep for the rest of my life." Few Centralites can forget Marianne—her warm, wonderful smile, or her Christmas call from Umea, Sweden, and the Henriksson's.

Gary Shappard informs "Grandma" (Pat Rudy) of the coming of the "Great Basketball" during a homeroom pep session.

Much of the enthusiasm generated throughout Lawrence Central for sports began with the development of spirit for our team and for the student body. Knowing that the students were enthusiastic, the basketball and football teams had more will to win.

The freshman, reserve, and varsity cheerleaders spent many hours after school developing new techniques and yells. Practice was important because precise symmetric movements must be attained.

Booster Club, with over 430 girls, raised enthusiasm at the home basketball games. The club performed chants and cheers with the cheerleaders and Pep Band. Members also attended the County and Sectional Tourneys, and one away game. Every Thursday during home-room, they met with cheerleaders and the Pep Band.

With pep sessions and posters, the cheerleaders and Booster Club encouraged Centralites to go to games and support the Bears.

Centralites selected in the spring to lead cheers next year included Peggy Callinan, Karen Ellis, Susie Martin, Linda Meeks, Pat Rudy, Connie Crum, Beth Lorch, Bethi Miller, and Gwen Sanders.

Reserve Cheerleaders may often be found at afternoon practice sessions that help perfect routines.

Featured in several convocations, including the Thanksgiving and Christmas programs, most performances were held in the Elisha Reddick Auditorium both after school and on weekends.

Choral groups sponsored both a pop and classical concert in the spring. The entire Vocal Music Department attended the annual County Choral Festival.

In addition, the Bel Cantos, Ensembles, and Melody Maids performed at private luncheons and several churches. During the holiday Season, the Bel Cantos singers dressed in period costumes, and provided the entertainment by celebrating an old English Christmas dinner, a tradition established this year.

Bands Create Stirring Performances

Helping to create school spirit during a homeroom pep session, the Pep Band, under the direction of Mr. Don Fountain, combines its talents with the Booster Club and Cheerleaders for many colorful routines.

In the fall the concert band gave spirit to the home football season, helping to enliven the team and spectators. Its members practiced many hours to gain perfection in initial marching patterns that provided delightful half-time entertainment. The "Marching Bears" also played in the Indianapolis Christmas Parade.

During the winter and spring the band performed at several concerts in the Elisha Reddick Auditorium. It also provided entertainment at the Holiday convocations.

In February the concert band gave their talents to "Two For a Show." They traveled to attend Ball State Band Day and the Central Southern Division of the State Band Contest.

Pep Band members were chosen from the Concert Band. They played at all home basketball games and at pep sessions. The Pep Band gave added sparkle to Booster Club through musical routines.

The Barons played pop and jazz for many dances and social engagements. It was probably the most fully acknowledged band because its music captivated audiences of all ages.

Jim Seet and Irene Kutzelman, as drum major and majorette, are responsible for some of our various halftime shows.

Merchants profited as pupils spent more than a million dollars this year on goods and services. Clothes, cars, school supplies, and snacks ranked high in the merchandise purchased.

Services, such as haircuts, beauty salon appointments, and dry cleaners took a sizeable portion of the students' money. In addition to buying for themselves, Centralites purchased presents for others for Christmas, weddings and birthdays, adding up to a large amount of buying from the merchants in our community. For this reason it is also the merchants For Whom The Bell Tolls...

'67 Bears' Den Staff Bows Out

As the final deadline for the 1967 Bears' Den approached, staff members found the hours extremely fast, and the days dangerously few. These selected Centralites spent many busy, and often sleepy, hours developing LC's newest yearbook.

Certain individuals who gave their irreplaceable services throughout the year must be recognized. Mr. Winston Matthews lent his talents not only to the senior and faculty album picture sections, but to parts of the introduction. Mr. Dean McWhirter of Indiana School Pictures aided in the Booster Club formal and underclass album. Our representative to Inter-Collegiate Press, Mr. William Butherus, proved to be a necessary link between the staff and his company. In conclusion, Mr. Monte Hensley, LC's new yearbook adviser, endlessly provided numerous opinions and suggestions—significant items which produce a successful yearbook.

With the help and guidance of others, the 1967 Bears' Den Staff labored diligently to achieve the best possible book to offer those For Whom The Bell Tolls...
